Hon. R. B. Bennett, in Addressing Huge Audience at Brandon, Charges Liberals With Conversion on Eve of Election to Policy of Seasonal Tariffs, Which They Had Condemned

Conservative Chief States Attitude to C.N. Railways

By THOMAS GREEN
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

BRANDON, Man., June 21.—In his final speech before turning eastward in the Dominion election campaign, Hon. R. B. Bennett spoke here tonight. The Conservative leader addressed a huge audience massed in the Auditorium. Speaking in the constituency represented by the Minister of Railways, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Mr. Bennett questioned whether Mr. Crerar was running as a Liberal, Progressive or "on his own."

He had passed the committee rooms of the minister today, the Opposition leader proceeded, and he had observed that they were simply marked as headquarters of T. A. Crerar. "He cannot escape his allegiance to the Liberal party," the Opposition chieftain exclaimed. "He cannot call himself anything but a Liberal because the Prime Minister said he is conducting a Liberal Government."

HURLS FIVE PEOPLE OVER HIGH CLIFF

War Veteran, Seized With Maniacal Frenzy, Sends Wife and Children to Their Death

THEN FOLLOWS IN SUICIDAL LEAP

(Associated Press)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 21.—Seized with maniacal frenzy while on an outing with his family, Raymond C. Spang, thirty-five, Ansonia, a World War veteran who escaped yesterday from a hospital for the insane, today hurled his wife and four children to their death down a 300-foot cliff, known as West Rock, and then followed in a suicidal leap.

Two hours after he had sent the family hurtling through the air, Mr. Spang jumped off a ledge seventy-five feet below the summit to his own death. Thousands of spectators and scores of policemen and firemen saw the man leap from the ledge.

Besides Mr. Spang the victims were his wife, Gertrude, thirty-three, former school teacher, and their four children, Helen, ten; Lorraine, seven; Raymond, five, and Donald, four.

With considerable heat, the Opposition leader referred to a rumor regarding his attitude toward the Canadian National Railways. The report, Mr. Bennett said, was that if elected to office, he would place a Canadian Pacific officer at the head of the Canadian National system. The report, he warmly exclaimed, was "false and nothing could be more ridiculous."

He was not in favor of the amalgamation of the two railways and believed in competition.

Rotarians Gathering At Chicago

CHICAGO, June 21.—Rotarians from many parts of the world tonight were convening here, the hub of Rotary's wheel for five days next week, celebrating the jubilee anniversary of the international group. By tomorrow night most of the delegates will have arrived. Special carloads of delegates are coming from England, Italy, Central European countries and from the Latin-American nations and the Far East. Beginning Monday, the Chicago Rotary Club, host organization, has planned a continuous round of convention meetings and social functions, including dinners, golf tournaments and business sessions.

Ten Racing Sloops Sink In Sudden Squall

COLD SPRINGS HARBOR, N.Y., June 21.—Twelve racing sloops, with a total of thirty-six men, women and children on board, capsized today in Long Island Sound in a sudden squall of almost hurricane force. All of the sloops' passengers and crews were rescued, but ten of the vessels sank and two were carried ashore by the tide.

The schooner yacht Varuna, owned by Mr. John Remsen Bishop, of White Plains, was run down and sunk off Larchmont by the yacht Shadow H., owned by Mr. Carl G. Fisher.

Miss Mildred R. Bishop, daughter of the owner, Mr. Heffries Maxwell, a passenger, and the six members of the Varuna's crew were rescued by the Shadow after they were thrown into the water by the force of the collision.

OFFICIALS DISCUSS FUTURE OF NORTH

(Special to The Colonist)

HAZELTON, B.C., June 21.—The longest day of the year and the first of the Summer season witnessed scenes of activity and enthusiasm in this old frontier trading post that recalls the busy times of railroad construction eighteen years ago. The Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, the Governor of Alaska, a personal representative of the Washington Administration, the Premier and Minister of Mines of the province, men prominent in the commercial life of Canada and different states of the union, and members of the press representing journals with continent-wide circulation, all gathered in Hazelton to discuss the future of Northern British Columbia, the Yukon, and Alaska.

In the little grey schoolhouse near the age-old and tottering totems of Hazelton, Premier Tolmie and Hon. W. A. McKenzie held informal discussions with Governor Parks, Hon. E. A. Sawyer, Major Malcolm Elliott, chairman of the Alaskan Road Commission, and several others prominently identified with the proposal to extend the British Columbia highway system northward. What

Vancouver Island Magnificent Area For Film Making

REFERRING to Victoria and Vancouver Island as a "Wonderland of Beauty" without comparison for its scenic attractions the world over, Mr. E. B. Hesser, a leading Hollywood cinematographer and art director, told a representative of The Colonist yesterday some of his impressions, after an extensive tour of the island, under the guidance of Mr. J. S. H. Matson, at whose invitation the camera expert came to Victoria recently to conduct an impartial survey into motion picture production possibilities here.

Mr. Hesser predicted an assured success for picture production, if undertaken in this area, and claimed that the scenery of Vancouver Island was a new region which would become of first rank importance to large scale producers in the film world. Unrivaled scenery, the absence of anything that would be an obstacle to camera work or production, and a freshness of scene that was like new life to film possibilities were some of the points on which Mr. Hesser based his finding.

A NEW HOLLYWOOD
If picture production is started here, he said, it would inevitably mean the influx of large numbers of people, a valuable new attraction to tourists, and the upbuilding of a new Hollywood in the vicinity of Victoria, which would do more for Vancouver Island than imagination could picture. Mr. Hesser paid a genuine tribute to Mr. J. S. H. Matson for having drawn the possibilities of the new region to the attention of the world in the following interview he gives some of the impressions he gathered while on a tour last week of island scenes.

CABINET TO DISREGARD 'LEFT WING'

New War Vessels to Be Started by MacDonald Ministry, Aiding Unemployed

MR. ALEXANDER IS INSISTENT

By CONSTANTINE BROWN
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily Tribune)

LONDON, England, June 21.—The demand of a group of Socialist members of Parliament that the British Government refrain from building new warships this year is likely to be disregarded by the Cabinet.

Right Hon. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, is asking the Cabinet to approve the construction of three additional cruisers, four destroyers and three submarines. These vessels will replace an equivalent number of ships that will become obsolete in 1932.

The Left Wing members, who demanded postponement of the building of these warships, stated in a written request to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald that the new building programme was likely to cause ill-feeling in the United States and Japan.

The Cabinet has not decided yet whether the necessary money should be allotted to the Admiralty, but Mr. Alexander insists that it is vital for the safety of the Empire to replace the obsolescent vessels.

Mr. MacDonald and Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson favor building the new vessels on account of the disquieting situation in the Mediterranean and in India, while members of the Cabinet in charge of the unemployment question support Messrs. Alexander and MacDonald, because new construction will offer further employment to several thousand men in the navy yards who otherwise would be discharged.

Right Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Right Hon. George Lansbury, First Commissioner of Works, also support the Left Wing in its present attitude, the former because he is trying to save the treasury some $20,000,000 for this financial year, the latter because he is a strong disarmament advocate.

DISAPPEARS FROM VESSEL ON TRIP ACROSS PACIFIC

Mr. F. E. Beattie, fifty, an accountant in the Bank of Hongkong and Shanghai, at Shanghai, disappeared from the Empress of Russia on Friday last. It was reported on the steamer's arrival here Saturday. He was a passenger en route to Scotland with his wife.

B.C. CONFERENCE TO COME HERE

United Church Gathering Accepts Invitation to Meet in Victoria During May, 1931

In addition to having the president of the British Columbia Conference in this city in the person of Rev. O. M. Sanford, who comes soon to Victoria West Church, the United Church constituency will entertain the conference members at the annual meeting in May. Yesterday Rev. Dr. Wilson, minister of the First United Church, received word from Rev. O. M. Sanford that the conference executive had decided to hold next year's sessions in this city. This followed an invitation sent recently by a local host committee consisting of the pastor and layman of each congregation of Greater Victoria. This will be the first provincial meeting to be held here since union in 1925, although both the former Methodist Conference and Presbyterian Synod meet frequently in Victoria.

At the invitation of the session of First Church, the conference, which will convene on May 13, 1931, will hold the gathering in that church.

Plane Approaches Its Own Record in Endurance Flight

CHICAGO, June 21.—Hundreds of spectators visited the Sky Harbor airport today as the City of Chicago sailed into its eleventh day of flight and approached its own record of 261 hours, set in an endurance flight last Summer. The ten-day mark was passed at 4:40 p.m. today, with no indication that the plane or its pilots, Messrs. Kenneth and John Hunter, were weakening. The brothers have announced they intended to remain aloft as long as possible, in an attempt to smash the 450-hour record set last year by the St. Louis Robin.

FORT STREET WIDENING IS BEFORE CITY

Expropriation By-Law to Be Placed Before City Council on Monday for Consideration

SURVEYS COMPLETED DURING LAST WEEK

Decisive action on the proposed widening of Fort Street, between Yates Street and Pandora Avenue (formerly Oak Bay Avenue), is expected to be the outcome of the regular meeting of the City Council, on Monday evening, when an expropriation by-law, and completed surveys of the property still required, will be laid before the Mayor and aldermen.

The city is already in possession of over 60 per cent of road allowances required in the narrow part of the street, locally known as The Dandelions. The acquisition of these parcels has been accomplished gradually, over a period of years, and was speeded up this year. Payment for the land already acquired has been arranged on a basis said to be mutually satisfactory to the corporation and to the owners affected.

Governor Endorses Highway

HAZELTON, June 21.—Lieut. Governor Bruce tonight gave unqualified endorsement to the Highway project. Speaking at a banquet here he declared the road would be of enormous value to this province and of comparatively small cost.

"I believe," he said, "that in a short time we shall see a great highway stretching through the northern half of this province to Alaska, fringed by prosperous farms and stopping houses. What of the cost? As a canny Scot, it seems to me that the investment would be small in proportion to the volume of revenue which we shall get if we attack the great resources of that northern empire. I say Godspeed to the gentlemen who are proposing this project in their work."

Pamphlets Demanding Expulsion of Carol Seized in Bucharest

BUCHAREST, June 21.—Pamphlets demanding the expulsion of King Carol II and the proclamation of a Rumanian republic were seized here last night. Several arrests were made among members of the Liberal party believed to be responsible for printing them.

Mayor's Act of Charity Proves Expensive

JOULET, Ill., June 21.—A poor man knocked yesterday at the door of Mayor George Sehring's house, and Mayor Sehring gave him an old vest. The poor man said, "Much obliged, and well he might."

Mrs. Sehring came home a little later. "Where is that old vest of yours?" she wanted to know.

"Ah, yes," said the Mayor of Joulet. "The old vest. A poor man came knocking at the door, and I was touched by his obvious need of a vest and I gave it to him. The vest was getting much too snug for me."

"Snug or not, you have committed an expensive act of charity," said Mrs. Sehring. "I used that vest as a jewel case. In it I kept two diamond rings, worth $1,500 and $600, respectively, you see."

But Mayor Sehring already was at the telephone, with great animation, demanding the police.

BOMBAY, June 21.—Hundreds of women, clad in picturesque native orange costumes, today played a prominent role in aiding their Nationalist brothers in defying an order prohibiting National Congress drills on the city's playground, the Maidan Esplanade.

Sons of Freedom Refuse to Stop Holding Parades

NELSON, B.C., June 21.—Sons of Freedom sect of Doukhobors continued to defy the law. It was reported today. Two instances of nude demonstrations were reported to the police, but when investigation was made, the Doukhobors were obeying the law. The latest parades on the highway occurred near Thrums and Slocan River bridge, some miles from Nelson. Efforts of Peter Verigin, leader of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, to persuade the Sons of Freedom to stop their parades and to send their children to school, have been in vain.

PROTECTIVE CORDS

When the Svarajists assembled this morning, women under the leadership of Mrs. Avantikabai Okhlaya, municipal councillor, formed protective cords to surround a group of Sikh demonstrators as soon as the police arrived, endeavoring to hinder police interference. They waved their saffron scarves, from a distance, appearing like scattered figures doing a butterfly dance, while the men Svarajists and the Constabulary were mixed up together, the police wielding their bamboo sticks on the men and endeavoring to keep the women quiet.

Brave Rescue of Woman in the China Sea

Figures on the casualties differ widely. Some reports said that five women were injured, three of them seriously enough to be taken to a hospital, but the police said that they were hurt so slightly that they were not taken to a hospital. They said that those injuries were inflicted in the jam of people.

HUNDREDS ARE HURT

The Svarajists estimated that 15,000 persons were in the demonstration with 500 injured. Police estimate only 100 injured, and say that most of those hurt by bumping into each other in the mix-up.

There are indications of other tumultuous scenes tomorrow, with the police preparing to break up a demonstration of sympathy for seventeen members of the 18th Garhwal Rifles who were imprisoned for disobeying orders in a riot at Peshawar.

ENTHUSIASTS AT ROSE DISPLAY

Magnificent Blooms Shown at Annual Exhibition of Oak Bay Rose Society

TROPHIES ARE KEENLY CONTESTED

Rose culture is becoming one of Victoria's reputedly fine accomplishments. High standard of excellence goes up and down the coast as is certain to encounter rose enthusiasts who have heard of the merits of this place for rose growing, and, after seeing the seventh annual exhibition of the Oak Bay Rose Society, held yesterday afternoon at the Crystal Garden, the reason is not far to seek. It was a collection of exquisite blooms, and beautiful as many of the individual exhibits have been in years gone by, never has there been such a generally high standard of excellence. Rivalry has become keener and keener as the years have passed, until it has now become a contest in different varieties of perfection to you.

Picnic Tables At Beacon Hill For Public Use

CO-OPERATION between several Victoria firms, city aldermen and the city parks committee resulted this week in the placing of twelve concrete picnic tables at Beacon Hill Park, under a plan originated by Alderman John Worthington, chairman of the parks committee. Concrete for the tables was supplied through the courtesy of Mr. Edwin B. Tomlin, of the B.C. Cement Company. Gravel was donated by the Pioneer and Producers' Sand & Gravel Company. Wood for the benches was donated by the Lemon, Gossman mill, while the following gave cash donations to round out the plan: Mayor Anson, Aldermen Robert Smith, Robert A. C. Dewar, John L. Mara, William Cullin, William T. Straith, Messrs. George O'Neil, Hubert Lethaby, the firm of Scott & Peden, and Smith's Grocery, Messias Street.

Worthington filled the gap left by a personal donation. The picnic tables, filling a long-felt want, are provided without a cent of cost to the ratepayers.

ENDLESS INTEREST

The rose exhibits furnished endless interest in themselves, but the hall was further beautified by magnificent displays of sweet peas and delphiniums, the former, which completely filled the space beneath the stage, furnished by Messrs. Crockett Bros., of Duncan, and the latter, including about thirty-five varieties, furnished by Mr. W. R. Shippey.

The winners of the decorated table contest were Mr. I. Couland, who used assorted varieties of cream, pink and orange-pink roses, arranged in Waterford glass bowls, and dull gold candles in silver sconces. Miss Coulter won the second prize, her table being decorated with Dr. Van Fleet roses, green glass bowls, the winner of the third prize was Mrs. Harrington. All the tables were unusually attractive, and the number of competitors was unusually large.

Many competitors entered the "bowl of cut roses" class also. Mrs. Harrington's entry, a great basket of pale gold roses, won first prize. Mrs. Walker's charming arrangement of pale flame-colored Angela Pernets taking second and Mrs. Reid's pale gold Emily Gray pinks taking third.

Bernard Colley, of St. Michael's School, won the McCall Cup against forty-five competitors. The two school entries were unusually good, the winning collection, entered by Monterey School, having about thirty-five varieties.

Naturally the focal point of interest in the show was the spot where the best roses in the exhibition were displayed, and envious admirers were to be seen any hour of the day about the two blooms belonging to Mr. H. R. Beaven and Mrs. Salabury. Mr. Beaven's "best rose" was a Lady Indiquin of clean, brilliant yet delicate Portuguese pink, and Mrs. Salabury's winning rose was Mrs. Lamplough, a magnificent creamy-white bloom.

Tickle's orchestra played during the afternoon and evening.

TROPHIES PRESENTED

Winners of the various handsome trophies were as follows:

Oak Bay Rose Society's Trophy, for twelve exhibition blooms, won by Mr. H. R. Beaven.

Hudson's Bay Company's Cup, won by Mr. W. H. Salabury.

McCall Cup, won by Bernard Colley, of St. Michael's School.

GERMANY FINDS EASIER MONEY

RESULT IS ATTRIBUTED TO BANK FOR INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENTS

Believed Bank Will Exercise Stabilizing Influence on Market

By OTTO BROOK (Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily Tribune)

BERLIN, June 21.—The activities of the Bank for International Settlements are already being favorably felt in the German money market, which is especially important, as serious need for cash prevents the Reich and State treasuries from supporting the market as they frequently did until summer of last year.

The easy money market, which has prevailed the past week, is believed to be due primarily to the Bank for International Settlements, which is buying Treasury bonds and other public certificates. Financial leaders are confident that the bank will exert an influence similar to and even stronger than that of Mr. S. Parker Gilbert, agent-general for reparations, who was often instrumental in bringing about easier money conditions.

Rodgers, Canadian National engineer, 1685 Eleventh Avenue East, Vancouver, aroused the suspicion that the owner of the clothes had met his death, as indicated in the note, in the waters of the arm near Point Ellice Bridge. A search is being made. Mr. Griffiths was going to his bathhouse at Point Ellice when he found the clothing with the note attached.

FASCIST WAR SPIRIT RAISES FRENCH ANGER

Tremendous National Programme Undertaken in Land, Air and Sea Defence

ITALIAN THREAT OCCASIONS ACT

By CAMILLE LEMERCIER (Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily Tribune Foreign Service)

PARIS, France, June 21.—The Cabinet has informed the finance committee of the chamber, that it intends to ask Parliament to authorize the expenditure of $320,000,000 for the national defence, in addition to current budget credits, and to special credits already voted for the land fortifications system.

Two hundred million dollars will go to the War Ministry, $80,000,000 to the Air Ministry, and $40,000,000 to the Navy.

Including $90,000,000 already voted for fortifications and not yet spent, the total of exceptional expenditures for the national defence in the course of the five forthcoming years will amount to $410,000,000. These figures, which have not been published heretofore, show that the French Government is anxious not to underestimate Italy's alleged aggressiveness.

FOREST OF TOTEMS

The members of the party visited Klappan, a weirdly interesting village, nine miles up the valley of that name. Here the forest of fantastically carved totems, leaning in many different directions, the picturesque huts of the natives and the great modern community hall, claimed attention, but what fascinated the members of the caravan was the manner in which the Indians added to the welcome that the whites of Hazelton had extended the previous evening.

Several of the chiefs dressed themselves in their ceremonial garb and gave exhibitions of dancing to the tune of wooden rattles and tom-toms, one chief, a wizened old man, proudly sported a tall silk hat decorated with an immense crown and a red silk band across his shrunken chest. The evident pride with which he displayed these gay garments as the insignia of his chieftainship was understood when it was explained that the hat and sash were presents from Queen Victoria in recognition of the endeavors of a Chief of Klappan to preserve

Kelvinator Demonstrates World's Fastest Freezing In Country-Wide Test

In a recent nation-wide test conducted by Kelvinator dealers, Kelvinator refrigerators in forty-nine cities and towns demonstrated the amazing average freezing time of 80 minutes—from water to solidly-frozen ice cubes.

All tests were attended and certified by responsible witnesses, including city officials, representatives of newspapers, universities, etc.

Super-fast freezing of this type is made possible only by Iso-Thermic Tubes—an exclusive Kelvinator device which concentrates intense cold in the freezing compartment—cutting the time of freezing from one-half to one-third the usual period.

Today Kelvinator brings to your home Four-Way Cold—an all-automatic type of refrigeration service never before obtainable.

It provides, in its de luxe models, four separate degrees of cold: (1) for extremely fast automatic freezing of ice and desserts; (2) a special Cold Storage Compartment, with below-freezing cold for keeping meats, fish, game, ice cream, etc., indefinitely; (3) steady cold for freezing ice at Kelvinator's fast speed; (4) controlled cold in food compartments always between 40 and 50 degrees.

Everyone can now own a Kelvinator —on Easy Terms

The model Kelvinator you require may be purchased on easy terms through Kelvinator's attractive ReDiCo monthly budget plan.

GOVERNOR OFFICIATES

In the afternoon His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor officiated at the turning of the first sod of the new hospital. In doing so His Honor spoke of the wonderful work that had been done by Dr. H. C. Winch and his staff in the past in the old hospital, and felt that the construction of a new and larger building would facilitate caring for the sick and injured.

Premier Tolmie spoke along similar lines and addressed a word of encouragement and advice to the Indians. He admonished the young men to work for the betterment of themselves so that they would be able to adapt themselves to changing conditions and, at the same time, take advantage of the opportunities that development would bring about.

In the evening the entire party were the guests of the citizens of Hazelton at a banquet.

for a rescue. The small boats in the rough sea could not reach the women, who, swimming strongly, related efforts of sailors to lift her from the water.

It looked as if she would ultimately become exhausted and drown, when suddenly Ellworthy leaped from "A" Deck and swam after her. She cluded him for some time and when finally he reached her she gripped his throat and attempted to strangle him.

Meanwhile, the liner was manoeuvred close to the struggling pair and Intermediate Fourth Engineer D. R. Dean leaped over the stern and went to his shipmate's assistance. A boat was lowered and the trio were hauled to safety. Mrs. Makaroff was taken off the ship at Manila and placed in her husband's care.

Both Dean and Ellworthy have been officially cited for bravery, according to Captain E. Alkman, general superintendent of the C.P.R. Steamships.

The dealers particularly were greatly interested and could express only words of commendation for what they saw. Everything packed is being graded, so that there is a decided uniformity in every crate loaded into the refrigerator car. SCIENTISTS CONFER AT EUGENE, ORE.

Public Interest Concentrated on Discovery of New Planet, Mr. W. E. Harper Reports

STUDY AGE OF TREES BY RINGS

The American Association for the Advancement of Science concluded its meetings Saturday, at the University of Oregon, Eugene, where it has been in session since Wednesday. Some 450 or more members of the affiliated societies were present, and participated in the work of their respective sections. Entomologists, chemists, mathematicians, meteorologists, physicists, astronomers and many other scientific workers were present from all the Pacific States as well as a few from Canada. Professor Campbell, of Alberta University; Dean Buchanan, of the University of British Columbia, as well as Professors Hutchinson, Fraser and other members of the British Columbia University staff took part in the proceedings. From Victoria, Mr. W. E. Harper and Dr. C. S. Beals, of the astrophysical observatory, presented papers of their own and other members of the staff in the astronomical section. Mr. Harper returned Saturday and reported a very interesting list of thirty papers read in their division.

NEW PLANET

Particular interest seemed to centre around the new planet discovered at the Lowell Observatory a little over two months ago. There has been much debate in the astronomical world as to whether this object is a real planet, or whether it is a comet or asteroid. It is about forty-one times as far distant from the sun as is the earth, consequently its angular movement relative to the stars during this brief interval has been so small that no accurate orbit could be computed. The provisional values, however, indicated the position in the sky which it occupied in previous years. Careful search has been made at many observatories of old plates, consequently it is likely to record it, but not until about one week before the meeting was authentic information forthcoming. It was located on four plates taken in 1919 at Mount Wilson, and from these observations a definite orbit was rushed to completion for presentation at the meeting. The evidence seems to justify the claims of the discoverer at Lowell, that it is a real planet beyond Neptune. Many papers of far more real benefit to astronomical work than this one were presented, but this subject seemed to hold the popular interest, nevertheless.

JOINT MEETING

Of outstanding value to physicists, astronomers and mathematicians was the joint meeting on Thursday afternoon of these three bodies when the question of the apparent great velocities of recession of many of the nebulae was discussed. Up to a few years ago the highest velocities known were of the order of 200 miles per second and these were for the brighter and nearer nebulae. These objects were shown to be nearly all receding from the solar system but no cause could be assigned for such peculiar behavior. An adaptation of Einstein's theory stated that such must be the case and that such velocities could not be considered as real. The Mount Wilson astronomers set out to observe fainter objects of this peculiar class and during the past two years have photographed the spectra of forty-five of them. It is found that the fainter the nebula, and presumably, therefore, the more distant it is, the higher the velocity of recession. The climax is reached for one nebula so faint that it required sixty-seven hours' exposure with the 100-inch telescope to record its spectrum. This amazing object is found to be apparently receding at a rate of 7,200 miles per second.

No wonder, then, that such velocities are looked upon as illusory, and Tolman, a brilliant mathematician from Southern California, showed mathematically how these illusory displacements of lines in the spectrum could be related to the intense radiations from these massive objects. Very few of those present at this joint session admitted their ability to follow all of his reasoning, but all admired his grasp of higher mathematics.

RINGS IN TREES

For the popular lectures at the evening sessions, Douglas, of the Steward Observatory in Arizona, thrilled a large audience, as with still and motion pictures he related his investigations of the growth of the rings in trees. Each year's growth of a tree is characterized by a ring, large or small depending upon rainfall and other meteorological conditions. By examining the rings in old timbers from ruins in Arizona he has been enabled to tell the dates of the occupancy of these by the Hopi Indians before the Spaniards drove them out, over 350 years ago. From the oldest trees he has now a complete ring system, extending from 700 A.D. to the present. The Canadian members in attendance were treated with the utmost kindness and carry away pleasant memories of their meeting with their American conferees. It is hoped to return the kindness of the American astronomers at a later date, for many of them are planning to attend the meetings of the fifth Pacific Science Congress, which is to be held in Victoria and Vancouver in the Spring of 1932.

HEADS FORESTERS

MONTREAL, Que., June 21.—Mr. W. M. Couper, Montreal, was elected for a second consecutive term as high chief ranger of the Canadian Order of Foresters at the final session of the fifty-first annual convention, which closed here today. Toronto was selected as the scene of the next annual meeting. Rev. Canon W. L. Armitage, Harrogate, Manitoba, was chosen chaplain.

Island Berries Are Excellent In Quality

It is gratifying information that comes from the Prairies with respect to the shipments of strawberries sent from Vancouver Island. Mr. J. Grant, markets commissioner, reports that Gordon Head and Saanich are shipping the best berries this year, and that they are arriving in fine shape.

The only lamentable feature is the fact that the crop has been such a light one that full advantage cannot be taken of the splendid quality of fruit.

Mr. Grant goes on to state in his report that British Evergreens are still the favorites. "Two crates of Aroma L.C.L. from Gordon Head were the brightest berries on the market this year," Mr. Grant continues. "They are oversized and therefore soft looking, but in perfect condition, and they sold in the slump for next to nothing, and were retailed at twenty cents a cup, against fifteen cents a cup for Senator Dunlop in the same store."

IS HERE FROM NORTHWEST TERRITORIES

Development of Natural Resources Is Expected More Aggressively in Future, Says Visitor

COPPERMINE AREA WILL BE OPENED

The proposed opening of the Coppermine district to mineral development is likely to have a marked stimulus on Northern Canada, according to Mr. N. W. Champagne, who is registered at the Dominion Hotel from Fort Smith. He is engaged in the territorial administration of the area, and is on the Coast on a visit of health.

TO OPEN AREA
While much attention has been directed to the mineral deposits of the Great Bear Lake area, exploration by air having become an important factor in the Northwest Territories, there are sections which have not hitherto been open to prospectors and among them is the Coppermine area, where as soon as claims can be filed, it is expected there will be keen competition to locate desirable properties. The beginning of July is set for this change of policy.

Another factor, Mr. Champagne points out in a chat with The Colonist, is that considerable more attention is likely to be given to Canada north of the sixtieth parallel than formerly owing to the transfer of the natural resources to the prairie provinces. There will naturally be a greater desire by the Dominion Government to accelerate development of areas within its direct control, particularly in view of proposed railway extensions, and the aggressive airplane prospecting which is proceeding in the North by several aerial companies.

GATEWAY OF NORTH
The situation of Fort Smith, as the head of navigation up the Mackenzie, covering some 1,300 miles, appears to assure its permanency as the gateway of the North, the only natural obstacle to continued water transportation to waterways, the rail head on the clearwater, being the winter-mile portage to escape rapids between Fitzgerald and Fort Smith, where goods are transhipped for carriage north and south.

INTEREST TURNS IN BERRY SITUATION TO PRAIRIE TRADE

With the strawberry crop for Vancouver Island now practically on the market as far as shipments to the prairies are concerned, the situation is now one largely for the Mainland growers to worry about. Mr. J. A. Grant, of the Markets Branch of the Department of Agriculture, who is now in the prairies, and who is reporting daily upon the situation, reported the conditions yesterday as follows: "Haney and Mission still shipping heavily. Extra car coming to Saskatchewan today leaves cleaning up doubtful."

"If Monday's arrivals moderate, market at all points will strengthen. Calgary and Edmonton cleaned Morgan's car at $3. Prices Calgary to "wholesaler" three other points as reported except part Mainland car in Saskatchewan to $2.90, on account of condition."

Ice Service Refrigerators

are taking the town by storm!

Never before have such beautifully finished, well-insulated refrigerators been sold in Victoria at such reasonable prices!

If the refrigerator you buy must be a thing of beauty as well as utility, then have an Ice Service Refrigerator all-porcelain inside and out, or a snow-white enamel exterior with porcelain lining at a lower figure, or you can spend still a third less and have a refrigerator of the same size—with the same thick cork-board insulation and refrigeration efficiency—but it will have a serviceable solid oak exterior.

Visit our showroom and see the display of Ice Service Refrigerators. You will be astonished at their size, beauty of finish, quality of construction and extraordinary low price. Time and again visitors have told us, "I've never seen anything like them. If I had I would have bought an Ice Refrigerator years ago!"

QUIET WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED

Mr. Edward Moore and Miss Faith Monk Married in Bishop's Palace

The wedding took place last evening, at 8:30 o'clock, in the library of the Bishop's Palace, View Street, of Faith Anne Byrne, elder daughter of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. T. B. Monk, Heywood Avenue, and Mr. E. Anderson. Edward Duffus Borthwick Moore, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Moore, of Vancouver. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her youthful charm was enhanced by her simple wedding gown of soft ivory satin cut in princess lines with a V-neck and long light sleeves and full skirt, which fell in even folds to her ankles. She wore a long filmy veil of tulle, which was arranged to a cap of lace and caught at the nape of her neck with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses and gypsophila. Her only attendant was Miss Doreen Drummond-May, in a lovely princess frock of rose satin, trimmed with soft lace, and a large picture hat to match. Her bouquet was composed of Laddie carnations and blue iris. Mr. Karle Rindel, of Vancouver, supported the groom.

RECEPTION AT ARMORIES
A reception followed after the service in the 5th Regiment Mess at the Armories, Bay Street, which was beautifully arranged with masses of roses for the even. The fireplace was banked with roses and greenery, and here the bride and groom stood to receive the felicitations of their friends, being assisted by Mrs. Monk in a becoming gown of beige net with a coat of lace and a wide-brimmed hat to match. The beautiful bride cake held the place of honor on the rose-decked supper table.

WILL LEAVE FOR TOUR
Mr. and Mrs. Moore will leave this morning on the S. E. Enns, Alexander for San Francisco, en route to Honolulu, and after a world tour, during which they will visit many countries, they will return to British Columbia in October and make their home in Vancouver. The bride traveled in a smart costume of English tweed in shades of blue and grey, with a long coat and a beige hat of Italian straw turned off the face and finished with a bow of French felt.

STRAWBERRY SOCIAL
The South Saanich Young People's Society will hold an outdoor strawberry social in the South Saanich United Church grounds, East Saanich Road, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Among other attractions, a concert will be given by well-known artists from Victoria.

Clubs and Societies

Purple Star Lodge

The business meeting of Victoria Purple Star Lodge was held on Wednesday evening, with Mrs. Shand in the chair, assisted by Mrs. Skett. There was a good attendance of members, four taking second degree. Much business was discussed, including a social for next meeting to welcome the Right Worshipful Grand Mistress of British Columbia. The next meeting will take place on Friday, July 4. Arrangements are in hand for a garden party to be held at Mrs. Trowdale's home, 631 Equilmont Road, on July 30. There will also be the annual church parade on Sunday, July 6, at the First Baptist Church; members are requested to meet at the Orange Hall at 10 o'clock. The July 12 celebrations will be held in Vancouver, members wishing to attend should apply to the ticket convener, telephone 6351R or 4407R.

St. Mark's Fete

The community garden party and sale of work of the ladies of St. Mark's Church W.A., Cloverdale, will take place at the beautiful gardens and home of Premier and Mrs. Tolmie, who have kindly granted permission for it to be held there on Wednesday afternoon. There will be games of clock golf and fancy dancing on the lawn and short addresses will be delivered by Reeve Crouch, of Spanish, and Principal Gardner, of Tolmie High School, during the afternoon. Mrs. Dorothy Wilson's Russian Ballet School pupils will contribute fancy dancing and Miss May Clark, pupil of Mrs. Wilfrid Ord, will recite. Afternoon tea will be served.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

Interest in the new Summer coats is centred in the sleeves. Many of the most recent models reveal the cape treatment with sleeves omitted entirely. Another popular style is the sleeve of three-quarter length striped or tucked in a decorative, deep cuff.

Other fabrics fashions many of these coats with the material used in a double layer to lend body to the garment. If a cape is featured the material is used singly, allowing the arm to show and lending a more summery air to the wrap.

A simple Summer coat of this type is shown above. Fashioned of pale green wool georgette, it uses white pique for the collar in an effective contrast. The white kid belt and white buttons are effective details. And in this model you see how the elbow length cape takes the place of sleeves. Godets add fullness and grace to the skirt.

Weddings

WEEKS-MUTRIE

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, "Alisa Mansions," on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, when Rev. J. Ryder, O.M.I., performed the marriage Jean Anita, daughter of Mrs. M. Mutrie and the late Mr. Martin Mutrie, of this city, and Mr. Thomas Weeks, of Port Coquitlam, B.C., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weeks, of London, England. The three little nieces of the bride, Sheila Gregory-Allen, Marion Crow, of Victoria, acted as flower girls. The couple left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, and will later return to Port Coquitlam, where they will make their home.

RUSSELL-FOX

The marriage took place Friday morning of Hilda Dorothy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas John Fox, 2654 Graham Street, to Mr. Gray Russell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Russell, of Seattle, Rev. W. G. Wilson performing the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father and the service was attended only by immediate relatives of the bride and groom. The charming bride wore a chic frock of pale blue crepe, daintily trimmed with cream lace, and she carried a bridal bouquet of roses and sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Fox, who wore a delightful ensemble in shades of blue. The groom was supported by Mr. Walter Battison. Among the many beautiful gifts received was a lovely tray of silver from the staff of the Hudson's Bay Company, of which the bride was formerly a member. The bride wore a fawn ensemble over a frock of jade green, for traveling. Mr. and Mrs. Russell left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, and after a sojourn in Los Angeles will take up residence in Victoria.

Recent guests at the Beverly Apartments include: Mr. H. Hiker, Grand Island, Nebraska; Mr. S. Smith and Mr. P. Jenkins, Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. G. McCavley, Edmonton; Mr. W. Denison, Bellingham; Mr. G. Morrison, Sidney; Mr. E. C. Seip, Vancouver.

Charming Wedding at St. Mary's

St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday afternoon when, in the presence of a large number of friends, Gwendyth Torrance (Girle), only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Forbes, Sunset Avenue, was united in matrimony to Mr. Douglas Colston Roberts, of San Rafael, California, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Roberts, of Southall, South Road, Middlesex, England. Rev. Canon Nunn officiated and the service was fully choral. For the occasion, friends of the bride had decorated the church with a profusion of Summer flowers in all the lovely pastel shades, and during the service, the bride and groom stood beneath an arch of delphiniums, roses and white campanula, and the pews were all tied with pink roses, spiraea and pinks. The font was banked with spiraea, foxgloves and delphiniums. The decorations were the handwork of Misses Esther Alexander, Doreen and Kathleen Swayne, Florence Eagel, Frances Musgrave, Anne Sherwood, Isabel Routledge, Naomi Taylor and Kathleen Hall. During the service the hymns, "O Perfect Love" and "May the Grace of Christ, Our Savior," were sung by the choir and congregation. Mr. F. T. C. Wickett played the wedding music.

LOVELY BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a beautiful picture in her wedding gown of ivory satin, made on long princess lines, the skirt, made with circular godets, hanging in graceful folds, each cut in a scalloped hemline. Her only ornament was a string of pearls. As she entered the church her veil of filmy Brussels net, an heirloom of the family, was a coronet of orange blossoms, with clusters at each side of her head. Her shower bouquet was composed of Ophelia roses, swan-sonia and gypsophylla.

She was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Doreen Swayne and Miss Lois Wilson, who wore charming frocks of mauve and green crepe de Chine, respectively, made with high waisted bodices and long full skirts, the hemline edged with net of the same shade.

Their bouquets were sheaves of delphiniums, carnations and anthuriums. Little Miss Patay Roberts, a niece of the groom, was the flower girl, in a quaint little Kate Greenaway frock of blue crepe de Chine and a Juliet cap on her head. She carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Mr. Campbell Forbes, twin brother of the bride, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Bruce Forbes, brother of the bride; Tommy Tye, Edwin and Arthur Laundry and R. E. A. Diespecker.

LEAVE FOR BANFF

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts left on the 7:30 o'clock ferry for Anacortes, en route by motor to Lake Louise and Banff, and will return to Victoria before proceeding to San Rafael, California, where they will make their home. Mr. Roberts is professor

Character Series
No. 2If Your Face
Is "Round"

The "round-faced" big man has been called the "enjoyer." He rarely pursues theories or philosophic study, but he is often a brainy man. Especially does he possess the financial sense—that is why he is frequently a banker or broker.

Like the "square-faced" type, he generally picks out glasses with the appearance of heaviness, but prefers eyeglasses to spectacles.

Though genial, he is a careful buyer. He finds the individual service he desires at this store.

MAGICIANS ELECT
OFFICERS IN ODD
MYSTIC CEREMONY

CHICAGO, June 21.—A tall silk hat sat squarely in the centre of a green-baize-covered table in the convention of the Society of American Magicians. The masters of legerdemain had cast their ballots for the coming year, and were awaiting the canvass of ballots. The manner of voting was unusual. Each voter was required to remove his coat, roll up his sleeves and mark his ballot with the same pencil on a specially prepared piece of paper cut into 350 pieces, all numbered. The voter was required to take a bath not to tamper with the ballot box.

Theodore Harden, the retiring president, reached for the first ballot. He drew out a rabbit. A second time his hand went into the hat and he pulled out a lighted candle. In succession he produced a pair of handcuffs, a glass of water, a Japanese lantern, a canary, a petunia in a flower pot, six yards of red ribbon, a string of threaded needles and a stein of beer. The audience was in a turmoil.

"Stop the count," John Mulholland shouted. "I can read the ballots. The vote is unanimous in favor of James C. Woodensmith of Philadelphia, for president, Eugene Laurent, of Chicago, and C. Elliott Smith, of Detroit, for vice-presidents, Royal L. Vilas, of New Haven, for secretary, Harry Rouclere, of New York, for treasurer, and Leo Rullman for editor of Mum."

A defeated candidate shouted for a recount. When the motion was carried, the ballot box had disappeared. So had the treasurer's report. The convention closed with a carnival and a performance of magic. Guests at the carnival had $1,000,000 in stage money with which to try their luck at the shell game and three-card monte in the hands of magicians. The carnival ended with all of the stage money in the society's till.

Dickens Club Plans
For Annual Picnic

The annual picnic of the Victoria Dickens Club will be held on Saturday, June 28, at the Summer home of Miss Van Becker at Portage Inlet. Tonight members of the club will be the guests of Miss G. Shrapnel at her concert in the Progressive Thought Temple.

At last the disgraceful rumor had been traced to its source and Mrs. Turpin, the daily help, was confronted by an infuriated mistress. Instead of bowing her head, however, she defended herself with vigor.

"I was only repeatin', mum, what I heard from your own lips," she asserted.

"Good heavens!" shrieked the mistress. "Do you mean to say I told you my husband was in jail?"

"Not in so many words," conceded Mrs. Turpin, "but I drew my own conclusions. You said you were going to give a coming-out party in the Autumn!"

A Product of Baldwin

Baldwin acoustical engineers and research laboratories spent years in developing this piano. Precedent was forgotten. Old ideas were discarded. An entirely new scale was drawn. Entirely new principles of construction were evolved. These were tried, tested, proved.

The result is a piano designed with such marvellous ingenuity and built with such hair-breadth precision as to produce a tone volume and quality never before heard in this size instrument. Covered by the usual Baldwin guarantee.

We invite you to inspect and play this beautiful instrument. Your present piano accepted as first payment.

Miss Shrapnel's Pupils Heard at Concert

Miss Gladys Shrapnel and her pupils gave a delightful musical entertainment last evening at the Progressive Thought Temple, the programme including some noteworthy numbers. Among them were two selections from Schumann's "Paradise and the Peri," founded on Goethe's translations of Tom Moore's "Lalla Rookh." The first trio, "Sleep On in Visions of Rest," was played as a trio by Miss Shrapnel, Mrs. Gibbard and Miss Naomi Taylor, and the second group, "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained," was played by Miss Shrapnel, Miss Doris Fellows, Miss Judith Pope and Mrs. Gibbard. The audience showed its interest in and appreciation of the numbers by enthusiastic applause, which the artists undoubtedly merited. The programme, opening with the Allegro from Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" and piano solos, violin and piano duets and trios, played with intelligent understanding by even the youngest children, reflected great credit upon their teacher. Those taking part in the programme were: Violina, Mrs. Gibbard, Misses Doris Fellows, Muriel Franklin, Mr. Rudley, Dudley Crawford and David Franklin; piano, Naomi Taylor, Judith Pope, Billy Hayward, Lawrence Duncombe, Lenore Crawford, Betty Shields and Helen Lawton. The piano number, "By the Sea," played by Miss Naomi Taylor, with string accompaniment, was particularly pleasing, and Miss Shrapnel's solos were among the outstanding numbers. During an interval, Miss Killo made an appeal for a generous donation towards the Anti-Vivisection Society, in which she is interested.

of these two women has maids to do all her work?

TWO WOMEN with perfectly lovely hands : : wouldn't you think from the actual photograph, above, that they were both wealthy women?

Yet number 1 does all her own work : : number 2 has maids : : never enters the kitchen!

The clever young housewife knows the secret of hands that look lovely as those of the woman of leisure : : she simply uses Lux : : for dishes and all soap and water tasks.

Modern homemakers, by the thousands, are now keeping their hands white and smooth and young this easy way.

They discovered for themselves : : in washing out their fine things : : how perfectly lovely Lux leaves the hands : : then began using Lux for dishes and all household washing and cleaning tasks.

So many soaps dry up the precious oils of the skin : : leave hands red and rough and work-worn : : "dishpan hands." But pure, bland Lux suds protect the beauty oils and keep the skin smooth and fine.

Save the flower-like beauty of your hands! It costs so little to give them beauty care with Lux. Lux for all your dishes costs less than 1c a day!

SMART WEDDING RECEPTION HELD

Miss Marjorie Oates and Mr. Eden Quainton Married—Leave for Mountain Resorts

Miss Marjorie Josephine Oates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Oates, Newport Avenue, and Mr. Cecil Eden Quainton, elder son of Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, were united in marriage yesterday at 1:30 o'clock by Rev. Father Buckley, of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, the ceremony being attended only by immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked very charming in her wedding gown of flesh-tinted French nylon and Chantilly lace, fashioned on long simple lines, the bodice made with short puff sleeves, a V-shaped neck and the long skirt, ending in points, applied to the bodice in points. Her hat was of lace mohair of the same shade with a tulle brim line, and was turned over from her face, the brim being longer at the back, drooping over her neck. Her long silk gloves were inset with lace and her bouquet was of bridal roses and swansonia.

TWO ATTENDANTS

Miss Florence Oates, her sister, was maid of honor, wearing a very becoming frock of deep plum blue French nylon made with the popular high-waisted bodice and long full skirt. Her hat was of black straw of the same shade, and she carried a sheaf of delphiniums and pale pink carnations.

Miss Gloria Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilson, was the bridesmaid, and wore a frock of pale green point d'esprit over georgette to match. The fitted skirt had a front panel of satin, shading from pale green to pale pink, while streamers of rainbow-shaded ribbon were arranged at either side of the panel. She wore a wreath of French flowers on her head and carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas and carnations.

TODAY'S RECIPE

FUDGE Cake—Cream together half a cup of butter and a cup of sugar. Add one well-beaten egg and two squares of melted chocolate. Sift together one teaspoon of salt, three-quarters of a teaspoon of soda, two cups of pastry flour and one teaspoon of baking powder. Add alternately to mixture with one cup of sour milk. A teaspoon of vanilla should be added at the last. Bake for about forty-five minutes with the oven at 350 degrees. If you have an electric range, otherwise in a fairly hot oven until nicely browned.—Prudence.

Mr. Kenneth Applegate, of Seattle, was best man.

MANY ATTEND RECEPTION

A largely attended reception was held at "Gayhurst," the home of the bride's parents, where the bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Oates, wearing a smart gown of midnight blue tulle and beige lace, and hat of mohair and tulle to match, and by Mrs. Quainton, mother of the groom, who wore a becoming gown of navy blue flowered chiffon and blue hat. Mrs. Oates and Mr. Quainton each wore corsage bouquets of roses.

The house was beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers, which had been arranged by Mrs. Charles E. Wilson and her sister, Mrs. E. F. G. Dottridge, of London. The table was centred with a large silver tissue slipper, surrounded by tulle and a silver horseshoe, the buckle on the shoe being formed of rosebuds in the shape of a true lover's knot. Silver candelsticks arranged at each corner of the table held white tapers, and on the stems of the candelsticks, tiny silver slippers held in place clusters of orange blossoms.

TO LIVE IN SEATTLE

The bride and groom left on the Seattle boat en route to Banff and Lake Louise, and will return to Victoria to spend the summer before leaving in October to make their home in Seattle, where Mr. Quainton is professor of history at the University of Washington. He is a graduate of Cambridge University and of the University of Manitoba.

Among the many beautiful wedding gifts was a mail order gift of the members of the Five C's Football and Cricket Club, and a travelling clock from the Men's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral. The fellow members of the staff of the Bank of Toronto presented her with a pair of silver enamel dishes.

The out-of-town guests included Miss V. Roche, of Seattle, aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fraser, of Vancouver; Mr. Paul Blackdon, of London, Mr. and Mrs. Hogan and Misses Phoebe and Dorothy Hogan, of Duncan; Miss Mary Proctor, of Vancouver; Miss Dorcas Ashburnham, of Cowichan Lake; Miss Ruth Brown, of Portville; General and Mrs. Noel Money, of Parksville; Mrs. Jerome Eberts, of Vancouver, and Miss Fanta Tall, of Vancouver.

HOME ECONOMICS PRIZES AWARDED

Awards of the home economics prizes offered to students in grades seven and eight in the Victoria public schools have been made in the last few days, the judges being Misses McLenaghan, provincial director of home economics; Miss Leister, home economics instructor of the Provincial Normal School, and Mrs. Johns and Mrs. Skillings.

The Women's Canadian Club award to the highest student in grade eight (in sewing), a prize of $10 worth of books, was won by division 1, Girls' Central, teacher, Miss Fiske, which school also will also hold the silver service awarded by the Canadian Club, for the ensuing year.

Grade seven prize, $10 in books, was awarded to division three, North Ward School, Miss Margaret Peto, home economics teacher. There were also awarded the David Spencer and the Hudson's Bay Company prizes, each to grade eight, a prize of $3 and a prize of $2 for the garment taking the highest marks if all materials were purchased from the respective stores. The Hudson's Bay prizes were awarded to Mary Alexander in grade eight, George Jay School, Miss Charlotte Martin, home economics teacher; and to Florence Robertson, grade seven in Sir James Douglas School, Miss Frances Mackay, home economics teacher. In the case of the awarding of Spencer's prize, two girls tied for this, Gertrude Browning (Girls' Central, Miss Mackay, teacher), and Gue Nip (North Ward, Miss Peto, teacher). In grade seven, North Ward, the winner was Shimizu Schimizu, and the teacher Miss Peto.

ROYAL SCOTS' TIE TO BE WORN HERE

Hon. R. R. Bruce, colonel of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, has just received a personal letter from Her Royal Highness Princess Mary, colonel in chief of the Canadian Scottish Regiment and of the Royal Scots, granting permission to the Canadian Scottish Regiment to wear the regimental tie of the Royal Scots, the royal regiment. Her Royal Highness has graciously consented to recommend to His Majesty the King the granting of royal approval to the Canadian Scottish to the adoption of the Stuart tartan, which is the tartan of the royal family. A request is being forwarded through the Governor-General praying for the granting of this request.

HOW THIS ARTISTS' MODEL KEEPS FIT AND PRETTY

Says "Thank you, Kruschen, for my clear, bright eyes"

She is a busy mother—with all the work and worry and responsibility of four youngsters—but her clear, bright eyes and fresh, girlish complexion make her in constant demand as a model. How is it possible? Her letter explains. She simply trusts her health in Kruschen's hands. Kruschen keeps her young and fit. That's the secret of the whole matter. "I am a mother of four children, and although I am kept busy I always feel fit. People ask me why I keep so young and why my complexion is so fresh. I tell them all to try Kruschen Salts. I am a model also for many advertising firms, and thank Kruschen for my clear, bright eyes." Don't be content to envy her. Follow her example. Kruschen will keep you young just as it keeps her. The little daily dose keeps you young inside; you wake up every morning as fresh and fit as a schoolgirl, and before the first month is out the wonderful difference is written in your complexion and your eyes. Thousands are proving this daily. Why shouldn't you? It is sometimes suggested that single salts, like Epsom and Glauber are the same as Kruschen Salts. This is not so. No single salt can do what the six salts in Kruschen do. No single salt is as pure as Kruschen is. The standard of purity in Kruschen Salts is much higher than the high official standard laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia. To maintain this extraordinarily high standard, every single batch of the six mineral salts used in Kruschen is tested with exacting care by a staff of four expert chemists who spend their whole time on this work. They are guided by a further chemist of international reputation who is retained in an advisory capacity. In this way, Kruschen sets the world's standard for purity for medicinal salts.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c and 75c per bottle, and is manufactured at R. Griffiths Watson, Ltd., Manchester, Eng. (Established 1788). Importers: Macmillan & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

SENTENCE DEFERRED

Charged with assault, Albert Earl pleaded guilty in the city police court, yesterday, and was remanded for sentence until Monday by Magistrate George ay.

Earl told the court that he had been worrying over certain matters for some sixteen years, and this had led to the assault. He asked for the extreme penalty. On being told by City Prosecutor C. L. Harrison that this included flogging, as well as a long jail sentence, Earl said that if he had known that he would not have made the request he did.

Vancouver Island Appeals as "Empire of Beauty"

Perfect Scenic Settings of Rare Variety Found in Abundance in Concentrated Area—Fighting Salmon Add Thrills

By CAPT. EDWIN BOWER HESSER, of Hollywood

Five days of constant touring of Vancouver Island has revealed a new land to me—an Empire of Beauty. Though I have been privileged to gaze on most of the scenic wonders of the world during my years of motion picture and photographic work, I can truthfully say that in no such concentrated area as this island, from Victoria to Campbell River, have I ever seen so many spots of exquisite beauty.

perfect scenic setting for a motion picture production enterprise. We who have lived and made pictures in California think that our own Hollywood and its surrounding country is just about perfect. And just so, Victoria is simply a new revelation—a land of beauty undreamed of, yet very real, and all ready for the motion picture camera.

HAD THRILLING TRIP
It is difficult to know what to speak of first. The great thrill of the whole trip was a personal one—I guess that sport is one of the nearest things to every man's heart. After photographing the beauty spots suitable for motion picture locations, all the way from Port Alberni to Campbell River, on Thursday, I was tired out and quite ready to turn in for a night's rest. Then I heard tales of salmon fishing and the Tye Club, at the mouth of the river. It was already 7 in the evening—but I decided to have a go at fishing.

The light was falling fast by the time my little boat was in the straits. My energetic young oarsmen kept very busy against the tide. Within a few minutes I was rewarded by a strike, but the first fish got away.

ENTER KING SALMON
Then there was a real tug at the line—I let the fish have it instantly. He pulled it out like lightning, until the reel was almost empty—then changed the direction of his charge. Given the chance, I took up the slack—another rush and most of it was paid out again. The fish jumped—at least ten feet in the air—and by the last rosy rays of the setting sun I saw that I had a big fellow on the line. Back and forth he fought—I have never seen a gamer fighting fish. Half an hour of struggle ended when he was in the boat. At the scales of the Tye Club he weighed twenty-one and a half pounds—a perfect spring salmon. Where else in all the world could sport such as this be found?

While it happened that my fish was the biggest spring salmon of the season, they had already recorded a fifty-two-pound Tye salmon a few days before—and spring salmon running up to ten pounds were proving gamy rewards for nearly all the visiting fishermen.

CHARMED BY FALLS

Just a few miles from Campbell River I saw one of the most wonderful of waterfalls, Elk Falls. Through a narrow gorge the whole volume of water of the Campbell River falls with terrific velocity, sending spray and mist high into the air. When I photographed this marvelous spot on Friday morning there was a rainbow in the mist above the falls—an active, ever-changing mist, illuminated into golden beauty by the sunlight and crowned by the rain.

Elk Falls is situated in a magnificent acreage of Douglas fir—a spot ideal for the tourist, a scenic wonder which should be immediately designated as a national park and be kept forever for the people. It is a waterfall that can be easily and safely approached, and as a natural park will be a perpetual asset to the province.

TOOK DIFFICULT SHOT
Speaking of safety, it is for the casual visitor; but to take some of our pictures considerable risk was necessary. We wanted fine unusual angles of the tumbling torrent, suitable for motion picture work, and had to crawl over wet rocks, perilously close to the brink. Finally I found an ideal camera shot, but had to crawl out on a broken tree to get it. One wrong step would have meant a final plunge into eternity.

I can imagine these falls in the motion picture interpretation of some ancient, spectacular type of picture—perhaps a historical presentation of the Greek mythology of old—elevated to dignity through Greek and Roman classics. The island is so intrinsically beautiful that it would be very easy to find classical settings—for instance, of a drama including Venus, the ancient love goddess; Diana, the huntress and moon goddess; Apollo, deity of music and medicine. Ancient mythology provides a fertile field of story; it is taught in all the cultural courses in high schools and colleges in the States, and should provide a splendid subject for talking picture representation.

CLASSICAL SETTINGS
And just as easily as the scenic beauties can be used for classical settings, they can be employed for the most modern of pictures. One type I should particularly like to see made in Victoria would be a great logging story. In the woods of this island are the finest standing timber tracts for photographic purposes. The romance of logging could be made into a great picture—just one of the natural things to make here in the way of talking pictures.

ENDLESS VARIETY
Sea stories have natural settings of every possible variety easily available. The countryside provides an endless variety of rural scenes—farms, cattle raising, quiet lakes, rushing streams. The scenes seem endless—it would take motion picture companies twenty years of "shooting" dramatic pictures to exhaust the originality of Vancouver Island's scenic settings.

Scores One Short of Possible at Heals Range to Top Brother Bert by Single Point

A tricky wind and tricky light combined to make shooting rather hard at Heals yesterday afternoon, but in spite of that scores were pretty well up to average. F. Drysdale turned in the high score for the day with 98, while his brother Bert ran him a good second with 98.

This was the second Canadian Rifle League match for the Canadian Scottish, their ten best scores counting.

CHAPTER XIX

When Abigail Barth urged her young mistress to accept the invitation to dine at Berkshire Towers she did so in defiance of the fact that if the advice were taken she herself must spend the hours of dusk and early evening at Bride's House alone—or worse than alone, with no one but the giant, David, for company.

After the limousine had rolled away up the road she stood for some time with her hands on the gate, looking into the stretch of woods opposite. It was not a cheerful prospect for a person who, for over forty years, had trod nothing more disquieting than the pavements of a large city. Fortunately Miss Barth was not highly endowed with imagination. The flat-headed shoes which presently stalked back to the house never faltered.

In the living-room she found the new stable boy. He was stretched out before the open fire in Miss West's favorite easy chair, his long legs on the fender in the attitude of one who feels at home and master of the situation. He did not rise when she entered, acknowledging her presence with a languid wave of the hand.

"Has she gone?" he asked, still without looking up.

"If you're referring to Miss West," said the Scotchman severely, "there's no doubt but the limousine is halfway to Berkshire Towers by now."

The giant smiled lazily into the fire.

"Pretty snappy, that blue-and-gold going! The kid looked like a million dollars in it."

Impertinent as she thought him, Miss Barth could not very well take exception to his appraisal of her young mistress. She even went so far as to supplement it by saying, "You should see Miss Ann when she's really going somewhere."

"Oh, she wasn't dressed up to-night?" With another of those slow, irritating smiles. "I would have said she expected to make a killing."

"He was smoking a pipe; and he stooped now to knock the ashes out against the stones of the fireplace. As he did so his eyes were inevitably drawn to the forbidding message scrawled across his face. Instantly the smile faded. His manner changed. "What does it mean?" he muttered, following the letters to the last one in every stroke and curve.

"Ask No Questions! I'm thinking it's like Belshazzar's writing on the wall—a warning from God to the people of this country. Mr. Toby tells me that tongues in the Crossings have always wagged most shamefully about the Runnels family. The Good Mrs. does not like gossip."

The giant sat back in the wing chair, gawling at the blackened lettering through half-closed eyes. Ignoring the loquacious Scotchman, he continued to commune with himself. "And why on the fireplace?"

"Because it's the first thing you see when you enter the room," was Miss Barth's guess.

David rose and tapped the masonry with one of the fire irons. "Bould enough," he said, still to himself. Dropping the iron back into place, "Wonder when it was built?"

"The house is one hundred and fifty years old, I caught her ear."

"I heard a man who was here this morning tell Miss Ann so."

"But not the fireplace," came the quick retort. "There's nothing Colonial about oak slabs and iron mortars. No," in a puzzled voice, "I can't reconcile myself to believing that any of the Pilgrim Fathers built this wood waste. It looks more like the sort of thing one finds in the South."

"You're from the South then?" asked Abby, noting the gradual softening in the deep voice.

"Maryland," he admitted. "The eastern coast of the Chesapeake."

"Let's have a bite to eat," suggested Abby, as she laid out a chicken and a chocolate layer cake from last night. Cooking for Miss Ann is a waste of time these days. She's scarcely eaten since Otto was killed."

With a bountiful laden table between them, Miss Barth found opportunity to study her companion; though she hated to acknowledge it, she was forced to admit to herself before the meal was over that the big stranger had quite a way with him.

As for David, hunger dominated him. True, the Scotchwoman's stories about her young mistress brought an occasional comment to his lips, but for the most part, after the one outburst, he remained silent, an attentive enough audience except for his eyes, which continually strayed to the window over the sink.

"I wonder why those men of Seth Toby's doesn't come," he said at last. They were to be here at eight o'clock. It's twenty minutes to nine now."

Abby remembered that there were to have been two men on duty for the night. She saw that her companion was growing restless, consumed by an urge to get away, and her distrust of him returned. "You don't have to stay with me"—ruffling like an indignant hen. "I'm not afraid."

"Miss West made me promise not to leave till they came, and I'm not going to."

The giant's determination to keep his word to her young mistress was even more disturbing than his restlessness had been. He tipped the chair back until it groaned under his weight, folded his hands behind his head, and stared doggedly at the ceiling. Under the pit of his left arm Miss Barth saw this holster of a revolver.

"What business have you with a gun?" she started to say, but changed it to, "You're armed, I see. Expect trouble?"

With an embarrassed laugh, he took out the gun, a Colt .45, and fondled it for a moment between his palms. "No, but it's just as well to go prepared."

The doughty Scotchman was not unfamiliar with firearms. Her nursing's tastes had been more of a lad's than a lassie's: riding to hounds—clay pigeon shooting—an occasional trek after big game. "Been in the army, haven't you?" David did something with his head which might have passed for a nod.

"The war?"

"I'm only twenty-nine now." "Lots of boys in their teens went."

The big fellow hesitated. "Got over for the last six months. At seventeen I was as husky as I am now."

"What branch of the service were you in?"

"Aviation, of course. I wasn't going to let them coop me up for weeks in a stinking dugout. Not with the risk of being buried under tons of debris if anything hit us."

"You're all God's air and sunshine around you. And if you fall it's a man's death."

Abby said, "You'd better go out and attend to the horses. I can manage better alone."

He saw she was afraid of him and decided to disregard Miss West's order. "Just as you say. From the pig sty it was always kept, he took the lantern. "If anything comes, I'll leave the back door open."

The Scotchman heard him go stamping down the path. "A wild man, that one," she muttered to herself as she set to work scraping the supper dishes. "It'll only be by the grace of Providence if I get my hair back to civilization unharmed, after all this."

On the floor above Abby prepared her room. Undressed, she went to the night. She turned down the sheets and drew the chintz curtains about the four-poster bed.

On a chest of drawers beside the bed stood three heavy brass candlesticks, their candles spluttering sharply in the draft from the open window. In front of them lay the metal jewel box, its cover thrown back. The sapphires that had been longed to Rebecca West hung half in, half out, their golden fire burning against the white velvet lining and the bronze side of the box. Abby saw them and she knew she had been careless. The Scotchman sidled into the deep narrow closet to hang up a sweater. She had completed her task and was about to slide out again when a sound, faint enough to be almost inaudible, caught her ear.

For a twinkling moment the sound defied classification. But suddenly she knew it to be a woman's sigh—the deep-drawn, ecstatic breath of freedom taken when a woman's eyes light upon something which her heart desires. To Abby, in the closet, that sigh was most appalling that it was to anyone interior would have been. It spelled the beginning of a disintegration that was physical and mental, as well as moral. It had been amusing to work on the feet of the trades people, even poor Otto's. And now, she herself, was afraid. Afraid!

The sound came again accompanied by the soft pad-pad of feet. Those feet trod at a cat tread, slowly, crouching, with a predatory urge that was blood-chilling.

Abby's Scotch Presbyterian courage had by this time commenced to revive a little. Her heart beat thickly against her ribs, but she managed to turn and cast a pallid glance over one shoulder.

From inside the closet there was nothing to see!

She brought herself to leave the closet. The room was empty!

On the chest of drawers three candles flickered, making hobgoblin shadows dance on the walls and low ceiling. Were those shadows all that moved? No. Inch by inch, the curtains around the four-poster parted. A hand stole out toward the neck.

To do Abby justice, her first thought was to have the sapphires; but that bodiless hand had paralyzed her powers of locomotion. She could only stand and gibber and gape. The fingers of the hand were long. The flesh that covered them, brown and withered.

There was nothing human about it.

It was a Dead Hand!

"Help! Murder!" With every ounce of strength that was left in her, the Scotchwoman added that Final cry of horror, "The ghost! The ghost!"

Vengefully, the hand shot to the nearest candle. Thumb and forefinger caught the wick and snuffed the life flame from it. The second name expired as the first had done.

The third... the blackness into which the room had been plunged came the scuffling of footsteps, undisturbed, stumbling. There was the sound of a heavy body slumping to the floor.

A moment later, something lighter than air rushed through the door and down the hall.

WILL BE JUDGED
DURING JULY

The Victoria Horticultural Society is again conducting a Home Garden Competition, very much along the lines of former years. The society, in continuing this competition, hopes to inspire many garden enthusiasts to compete, also to create and stimulate interest in the beauty and usefulness of a good practical garden. The main object of the competition is for educational purposes, with a view towards greater efficiency in the art of decorative and productive gardening, and the beautification of the city. The society is anxious that all publicity possible will be given to the fact that the competition is not confined to members of the society, but is open to any person residing within the 2-1-2 mile circle. The competition is so arranged that practically any size garden may be entered.

Class "A" permits gardens of 7,200 superficial feet and over to be entered. The silver cup in this class is donated by Mr. George Little, who last year won outright the society's challenge cup. In addition to this, four good cash prizes are awarded.

Class "B" will take care of gardens of less than 7,200 superficial feet. The society's challenge cup and four cash prizes are again awarded.

In Class "C" gardens are not restricted to any size, and also award help may be occasionally employed. Mr. A. Tyrell is donating the challenge cup for this class, having last year won the society's cup three years in succession. Cash prizes are also offered. In addition to the above prizes, all competitors who obtain 75 per cent total points will receive awards of merit. The judging of the gardens is undertaken by the Horticultural Branch of the Department of Agriculture, and will be completed not later than one week previous to the annual show, which will enable all competitors to participate at that exhibition set for August 1 and 2.

A social evening has been prepared, which calls for arrangement of varieties, and industry, neatness and freedom from weeds and pests. Full particulars are outlined on the prize list of the Summer show, and can be obtained at all floral stores, or will be mailed to anyone interested by telephoning the secretary, Mr. F. E. Boulter, 538 Obed Avenue, 7862 X1. Entries are expected to be made by July 1.

VEGETABLES

COLD STORAGE No. 10
By H. G. BROWN, President Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Company, Limited.

The following information is the result of investigations carried out by various experimental stations and Departments of Agriculture in the preservation of vegetables in cold storage:

Potatoes—All varieties harvested in Autumn keep well in storage. Potatoes should be well matured and graded. The ideal temperature range is from 35 degrees F. to 40 degrees F. Potatoes "die" if held at a temperature of, say 18 degrees, for any length of time. There should be as little variation in temperature as possible; all light should be excluded; and provision made for ample ventilation.

Onions—it is possible to overcome the sprouting of onions by cold storage. They should be well ripened, dry and air-cured. The temperature range is from 32 degrees F. to 36 degrees F., and proper ventilation and even temperature are essential. A low humidity is desirable for onions. The best containers are slatted crates.

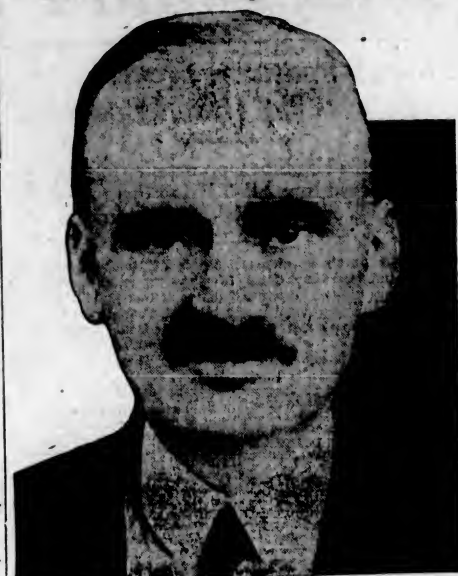

Cabbage—Quick cooling and adequate ventilation are essential for the storing of cabbage. Humidity must be as high as possible, with a temperature range of 32 to 36 degrees F.

Beans and Peas—Investigations conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture indicate that the common bean and pea weevil can withstand fifty-six days of cold storage at 21 to 32 degrees F., although they may with stand more than sixty-six days at 36 degrees. Therefore, cold and cold storage are the remedies for losses caused by bean and pea weevils.

Sweet Potatoes—Treat with sweet potatoes stored in cold storage, storage warehouses, banks and pits, show that cold storage is to be preferred.—Alabama Agr. Exp. Sta. Bulletin.

Parsnips—Studies of a quantity of parsnips—part of them allowed to remain in the field, part in cold storage at 20 to 34 degrees F., and part stored in an ordinary cellar—indicate that these roots may be brought rapidly to a state of high table quality by placement in cold storage at from 32 to 34 degrees F.

Toronto Man Says He Suffered Night and Day

W. P. CARTER

"My health went back on me four years ago and, in spite of all the medicines I took, I continued steadily on the downgrade. Then I started the new medicine Sargon, gained eleven pounds and just feel great!" recently stated W. P. Carter, 676 Spadina Avenue, Toronto. Mr. Carter is connected with the Canadian branch of F. F. Collier & Son.

"Just what started my breakdown in health I do not know, but I do know this: I commenced having pains across the small of my back, from one side of my body to the other, and I spent many a miserable day and night suffering with my gall bladder. Then, rheumatic pains in my shoulders added to my misery, and it seemed like I never was free of one kind of pain or another. My stomach got out of order and my digestion seemed to go all to pieces. I didn't have much appetite and didn't really enjoy anything I ate—it just didn't taste good. I finally got where I almost dreaded to go to the table because of the suffering I knew would follow. My nerves gave way on me finally, and for a long time I'd seldom ever get to sleep before daylight. My liver was 'slow acting' I was continually bothered with headaches and dizzy spells, I lost weight and my strength and energy almost went completely back on me."

"Just when I was beginning to think I would never get my health and strength back, I kept hearing so much about Sargon that I felt like I owed it to myself to give the medicine a trial, and I could feel it strengthening and invigorating my whole system. My appetite gradually returned, the pains across my back and in my side and shoulders lessened and I commenced feeling almost like a different man. I have taken four bottles of Sargon along with the pills now, and my improvement has been remarkable! I eat and enjoy three hearty meals every day, all my stomach trouble has disappeared, every ache and pain in my body is gone and my weight has increased from 118 to 129 pounds! My nerves are strengthened and I can't remember when I have enjoyed more resting and refreshing sleep. I have never seen such medicine for building up a rundown, fagged-out system!"

"Sargon Pills toned up my liver, headaches and dizziness are things of the past, and I'll be glad to tell anybody that asks me what this remarkable Sargon treatment has done for me."

Sargon is being distributed throughout Canada, as rapidly as possible. With the needs of their customers uppermost in their minds, Canada's leading drug firms—including internationally known chain store organizations, huge wholesale establishments and progressive, wide-awake druggists in the smaller cities and towns are writing and wiring in, expressing their eagerness to be among the first to supply Sargon to the trade.

Sargon may be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores in Victoria and Vancouver and Bews Drug Co. at New Westminster. (Adv.)

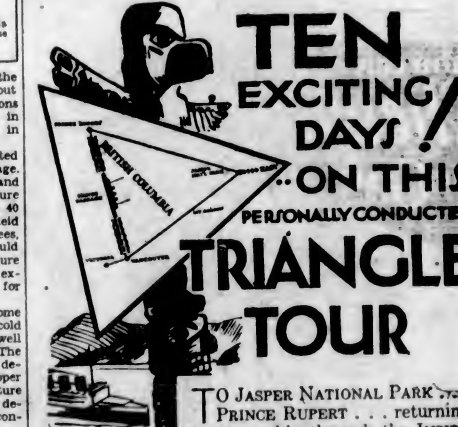

Shoe Repairing
Business Extended

With the opening of the Iris and Stevenson Shoe Repairing business at 636 View Street, patrons are offered the very best of service by the latest methods. Until recently Mr. Iris conducted a growing business on Truncheon Alley, but the need for room and a more central location dictated this step, and the firm was extended to include Mr. A. L. Stevenson, also of this city. The new premises are fully equipped to accommodate three experienced workers, each qualified to handle the up-to-date machinery installed. Great changes have been wrought in the shoe repair trade of late years and an ever increasing standard of work is expected. Outstanding changes in these changes is that of cementing in place of sewing the lighter types of ladies' shoes. This is carried out by this progressive firm, and the result achieved is greater pliability to the shoe, giving it new life and durability. The method enables them to execute the finest forms of repairs. All the ordinary classes of repair work are cared for and the cleaning of shoes has a special department set aside.

Unique Features Mark Film "The Green Goddess"

George Arliss Has Fine Opportunity in Dramatic Story, Turned Into All-Talking Picture—Based on Worship of Kali, at Dominion

THERE is an almost unknown corner of Northeastern India, skirting the impassable Himalaya Mountains, where a strange goddess known as Kali, is worshipped. It is this tiny and all but forgotten country and this weird religion that is the basis for the dramatic story of "The Green Goddess," which George Arliss has made into a Vitaphone all-talking picture for Warner Bros., and which is coming to the Dominion Theatre for a week's showing.

Very little is known of the worship of Kali except that sacrifices are still made upon her altars. Coats are most commonly used but enough strangers have entered that wild country and never returned to give credence to the belief that sometimes more gruesome offerings are made to the pagan Kali.

DANGEROUS LANDS
It is a land where anything can and does happen. Only one pass is known over the rim of the world ruled by Mount Everest, and that is usable only in the Summer, and even then is wild and dangerous. The natives are left largely to themselves and save for their distrust and fanatical hatred of strangers are thought to be a contented and peaceable people.

It is this native hatred that imperils the English group in the story of "The Green Goddess," and nearly costs the lives of them all. No more thrilling story has ever been told on stage or screen and now with the Vitaphone all of the dramatic qualities can be incorporated for the first time. Mr. Arliss, a splendid actor, has an unusually fine voice and is one of the most important additions to the list of talking picture stars.

The supporting cast includes such notable names as Alice Joyce, H. B. Warner and Ralph Forbes. Al Green directed. Julien Josephson wrote the Vitaphone version of "The Green Goddess" from the original by the well-known playwright, William Archer.

DETECTIVE FILM RETURNS HERE

Coliseum Presents "Return of Sherlock Holmes" With Clive Brook in Star Part

A notable cast has been selected to present Sherlock Holmes, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's famous fiction detective, to the motion picture public in the all-talking feature, "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," showing at the Coliseum Theatre tomorrow.

Clive Brook has the role of Sherlock Holmes, master man-hunter of all time. H. Reeves-Smith plays the part of Dr. Watson, his faithful confidant. Prof. Moriarty will be seen in the person of Harry T. Morey, well-known for past villainy. Sergeant Gipper will be faithfully portrayed by Hubert Druce.

"The Return of Sherlock Holmes" brings this famous sleuth to the United States for the first time. The reason for his leaving the retired life, is the murder of his faithful friend, Captain Longmore, on the eve of his son's wedding to the daughter of Dr. Watson. Holmes tracks the fiend to New York and succeeds in bringing them to justice, after a series of the most thrilling adventures he has ever encountered.

SOUND EQUIPMENT BEING INSTALLED

Renovated Columbia to Reopen on June 24 After Expensive Reconditioning

The Columbia Theatre is now in the hands of decorators and workmen, busy in the installation of the very latest sound equipment. This machine, of the Northern Electric Sound System, is the latest and most up-to-date type and is equipped for the showing for the highest grade "Talkie" pictures.

In addition to this tremendous change in equipment the whole theatre will be renovated and redecorated, the present fixtures being removed and replaced by new carpets, artistic draperies of good taste, and a new soundproof screen installed. The alterations which it is estimated will cost $10,000 will be completed in time for the re-opening date, set for Thursday, June 26.

The opening picture will be Ted Lewis in "Is Everybody Happy?" It is Mr. Lewis' first Vitaphone production for Warner Bros. and a picture well worth seeing. It is entertaining and lively with a story that suits the personality of this famous star of vaudeville.

There are many things in "Is Everybody Happy?" that you will find highly entertaining. Ted himself plays on several instruments and sings his songs in the manner that has earned him the title of the "high-hatted tragedian of jazz." He acts rather than sings and the result is most satisfactory.

BELLE BENNETT AT PLAYHOUSE

"Molly and Me" Is Presented as Romance of Stage, With Tender Story

A love story you can't help loving is told by Belle Bennett, Joe E. Brown, Albert Vaughn and Charles Byer in "Molly and Me," the Tiffany-Stahl Tiffany Tone production, coming to the Playhouse Theatre, where it remains until Wednesday.

It is about a pair, Molly and Jim Wilson, who have loved truly through ten years of one night stands only to nearly founder when they reach the success of Broadway stardom. There is nothing ugly, sordid or cruel in their story—just human, real and tender.

Jim gets a New York engagement, but without Molly, who finds life too empty merely as his wife and goes back to the burlesque troupe. Jim's pretty partner in the act he and Molly used to do, is a practiced petter—she pets everyone everywhere. But Jim takes her petting so seriously that he decides to break with Molly and marry Peggy. When he finds Peggy is engaged to someone else he has to eat humble pie before Molly, but he does it most engagingly, and Molly is, as he realizes, an angel. Dialogue and singing by the principals enhance the film, which Albert Ray enchantingly directed.

EARL DOM RULING TO BE APPEALED

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, June 21.—The Daily Mail understands that the question of the succession to the estate of the Earl of Egmont will shortly come into open court in the Chancery Division in the form of summons.

Recently it was reported that the protracted inquiry by the law courts into three separate claims, which were made to the title and estates of the earldom, had resulted in favor of Mr. Frederick Joseph Trevelyan Percival, Canadian rancher, of Pridia, Alberta. The decision was made by Mr. P. W. Chandler, master of the Supreme Court (Chancery Division), which would have to be confirmed by a judge's order.

The two claimants, it was said, intended to appeal the master's decision.

The rancher "earl" who had farmed in the Calgary district for twenty-eight years, arrived in England more than a year ago, accompanied by his son and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. Trimmer, of Pridia, Alberta.

PACKED HOUSE ENJOYS REVUE

FINE RECEPTION IS GIVEN PUPILS OF FLORENCE CLOUGH

Excellent and Varied Programme Delights Capacity Audience at Royal Victoria Theatre

To say that Friday night's dance revue of the Florence Clough Dancing Academy was a success would be to understate the case. The Royal Victoria Theatre was packed and the audience greeted every number with the greatest enthusiasm.

One of the most remarkable features about the work of Miss Clough's pupils is that they so obviously enjoy it, and because of this, half the battle is won in the first few steps of their dances. Although the programme was a long one, having no fewer than twenty-seven numbers, the performance did not "drag" at any point throughout the evening.

Where all were of such high quality it is difficult to pick and choose, but it is safe to say that the walls of the theatre have seldom heard such vociferous and sustained applause as greeted the Court Dance.

Two added attractions to the programme were the Victoria Girls' Band and Mr. Pierre Jalun in symbolic Japanese dances. The Wedgwood number was particularly pleasing, the grouping and costumes showing real artistry. The acrobatic work, too, was of an exceptionally high order and showed perfect muscle control.

The performers in the Rubie Dance worked splendidly together, and showed a happy-go-lucky grace, which was one of the most delightful things in the revue.

Moonlight was another number which was applauded to the echo, and the plantation scene struck a cheerfully intimate note. The Skaters' Waltz was cleverly contrived, the illusion of the action of skating being maintained throughout.

Egyptian Orientelle was particularly effective, and Miss Robina Norton's toe work in the Flame Dance was worthy of special praise. Miss Florence Clough, herself, was accorded a great ovation when she appeared at the end of the programme with Mr. Dan Plater in the Aeroplane Waltz.

An excellent orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Bert Zala, supplied the music and contributed greatly to the success of the evening. At

Production Drops in Coast Lumber Mills

SEATTLE, June 21.—Dropping in production about five hundred thousand feet from the previous week, 206 lumber mills in the Douglas fir district of the Pacific Northwest had reported today a cut of 147,961,100 feet for the week ending June 14.

Orders for the same period were slightly lower than production, reaching 144,428,857 feet, although shipments totaled 16,186,000 feet.

New business from the rail trade was about the same as the previous week, the West Coast Lumbermen's Association reported. Domestic cargo orders were about 7,400,000 feet. Export orders dropped about a million feet, while local orders were down approximately five million.

Odd Fellows Picnic Set at Ocean Beach

Members of Victoria Lodge No. 2, Odd Fellows, will hold a basket picnic at Ocean Beach, Dominion Day. Tea, milk and ice cream will be supplied.

Transportation will be provided for those who do not own cars, and the committee requests that all brothers assemble at the Odd Fellows' Hall at 10 a.m. promptly. Those requiring transportation will facilitate matters by telephoning Bro. J. S. McKellan at 1470, or Bro. A. Sedgley at 4731.

The committee extends a hearty invitation to all members of No. 1 Lodge, with their wives and children, to spend a happy day's outing. Arrangements have been made to return to town at 7:30 p.m. A fine programme of games, races and sports has been drawn up by the committee.

John Boles Is Star in "Captain of the Guard"

Laura La Plante Plays Opposite Him in Stirring Spectacle of French Revolution—Genesis of "La Marseillaise" Is Told at Capitol

ANY picture which brings John Boles' magnificent voice to an audience is bound to be good entertainment. When, in addition, it has an appealing romance, magnificent drama, and a theme like the "Marseillaise" song, there isn't much left to be desired.

"Captain of the Guard," which will open tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre for a week's run, is a dramatic musical spectacle in all-talking, of the biggest episode in French history. The theme is the spirit which led to the Revolution, as typified by the birth of "La Marseillaise" itself. The song by all odds the most stirring piece of music ever written, is the glorious drama upon which the film is built.

Sam de Grasse, Lionel Belmore, James Marcus, Stuart Holmes, George Hackathorne, and many other celebrities make up one of the most notable supporting casts in the biggest sound spectacle so far brought to the screen.

FORECAST GOOD FOR SEASON

HIGHLY COMPETITIVE MARKET IS EXPECTED DURING 1930

De Forest Crosley Radio Company Makes Substantial Improvements

E. M. BASSINGTHWAITE

"The 1930-31 radio season promises to be one of the most highly competitive seasons experienced in the history of the radio industry," stated Mr. E. M. Bassingthwaite, manager of the Merchandising Division of the De Forest Crosley Company, Limited, Toronto, in addressing Victoria De Forest Crosley dealers at a dinner held last night at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Bassingthwaite arrived yesterday from Vancouver by plane, accompanied by Mr. R. McMillan, sales manager of the radio department of Marshall-Wells, B.C. Limited, Vancouver, B.C., distributor of the De Forest Crosley line. Mr. A. Farquharson, Western Sales manager of the De Forest Crosley Company, and Mr. C. C. Paxton, Vancouver Island representative of dealers an interesting talk on manufacturing problems. He told how the De Forest Crosley Radio Company had just recently spent $120,000 to improve their manufacturing methods. This would speed up production and at the same time mean a considerable economy, which this year reflects in the low prices of the "Harmonic" models. He also told the dealers of the vast resources behind the De Forest Crosley line and the many companies both in Canada and the United States which the De Forest Company were affiliated with.

Speaking of business conditions in the West, Mr. Bassingthwaite stated that although he could not tell the conditions in other industries, conditions in the radio business were extraordinarily good. Mr. A. Farquharson gave a complete description of the cabinets of the new sets.

As this meeting will be in the nature of a reorganization meeting with re-election of all officers, it is earnestly desired that all members make an effort to attend.

BAND CONCERT AT BEACON HILL BY HIGHLANDERS

The second of a series of Bandmaster hand concerts, arranged by the city for Beacon Hill Park, will take place this afternoon, when the band of the 16th Canadian Scottish will be heard in an excellent programme. The concert will open with the march, "Under Freedom's Banner," followed by a selection from the light opera, "The Desert Song." A set of waltzes, "Gold and Silver," will be followed by a trombone solo by Bandmaster Miller. A selection by Moszkowski will be followed by two novelty numbers, "The Elephant Parade" and "Whistling Johnnies." A reverie, "The Sacred Hour," by Ketelby, and descriptive number, "In the Mill," will precede "Home, Sweet Home the World

"To meet this highly competitive market De Forest Crosley has announced a line of sets that sets a new high standard in radio performance," continued Mr. Bassingthwaite. Two of the "Harmonic" series of sets shown by Mr. Bassingthwaite were equipped with automatic level control, which eliminates fading, minimizes static and prevents local booming when tuning in on other stations. The sets have no volume control, having only a level control which makes all stations come in at the same level, when set.

Remaining to be acquired, if the city proceeds with the plan, is something less than 40 per cent of the road allowances which would be needed to complete a seventy-six-foot street through the area which is now served by a thoroughfare varying from under forty feet to slightly over fifty-three feet, including space for sidewalks, curbs, poles and light standards, besides the double-track rails and the narrow part of the driveway left for motor vehicular traffic.

Under existing legislation the city has the power to take possession of the road allowances remaining to be acquired, an action which would be affected, or defend any claims preferred in the courts in the event of an amicable settlement being found impossible.

SURVEYS COMPLETED

All surveys necessary before expropriation, have been proceeding at the City Hall for the last few weeks, under the direction of Mr. G. M. Irwin, assistant city engineer, who is a British Columbia land surveyor. The surveys are now complete, with the exception of minor details, and detailed descriptions of the lands required are being filed in the by-law which will be laid before the City Council on Monday.

The physical features of the plan concern a new thoroughfare which would be seventy-six feet wide between property lines, measured to a width of thirty-eight feet on each side of the centre line of the street car rails, and at right angles to this line. This would permit of a roadway for traffic purposes of sixty feet in width, with two sidewalks of eight feet each, or for a wider roadway if the sidewalk allowance were cut down. Telephone poles, light standards and curbs require a width of about two and a half feet on either side of the street.

On the north side of the narrow strip which it is proposed to widen there are some twenty-seven lots, with fourteen buildings, which approach near what would become the new property line. On the south side there are thirty lots, with sixteen buildings within relatively close range of the new line. The set-back of the property line which the city would require would vary from three to some twenty feet, and would provide for a standard uniform street width as measured from the centre line of the double-track car rails.

COSTS STATED

On the cost side of the project, $45,000 has been stated as the probable cost of the road improvements, for a full-width street. The land already acquired by the city was secured on a reasonable basis, and costs in this connection have already been arranged. The remaining road allowances which the city would require comprise less than 40 per cent of the total in the area.

The council will meet on Monday at 7:30 p.m., informally, and at 8 o'clock will hold the regular council meeting. Also on the agenda for the evening will be the plumbing by-law, as amended, which will be up for final discussion.

Victoria Property Valued at $2,236,746 Changed Hands During Period Up to June 15

THIRTY-FIVE SALES MADE IN TWO WEEKS

Victoria property to the value of $2,236,746 changed hands in 115 registrations recorded at the Land Registry Office between January 1 and June 15, it was stated yesterday by George Okell, city assessor. New title deeds given during the first half of June involved forty-five parcels of property, with a declared value of $131,135.

Sales to new owners from June 1 to June 15 numbered thirty-five, of improved and unimproved property, with a total sworn value of $87,205. Transfers without sale, of property aggregating $18,000 in value, were recorded in five instances; transfers by the probate of estates numbered five, of land and improvements valued at $28,000.

For the five and a half months from January 1 to June 15 a total of 627 pieces of property changed hands within the city, for a total declared value of $2,236,746.

Garden Fete Planned

LANGFORD, June 21.—A garden fete in aid of the Solarium at Mill Bay will be held on July 9, at 2:30 o'clock, by the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bullen, at "Marshwood," on the Station Road, under the auspices of the Women's Institute. Dr. Waco will open the event, and pupils of Miss Nancy Ferguson will contribute Scotch dances to the programme. There will be a home-cooking stall, and other attractions are being planned. Teas and ice cream will be served.

LANGFORD, June 21.—Mrs. Tillamont-Thomson, from England, will give a talk, illustrated with lantern slides, on "The Cathedrals of England." The lecture will be held in the Women's Institute Hall, on Dunford Road, at 8 p.m., on Wednesday, June 25, under the auspices of the Women's Institute. A collection will be taken to help defray expenses.

Fine English Type Of House Proves Convincing Appeal

Attractiveness and Distinction Governs Design of Hudson Six-Roomed Residence, Suitable for Average City Lot—Many Conveniences Add to Comfort of Occupants and Storage of Goods

THE prospective home builder who selects the Hudson, illustrated on this page gains the assurance that he is getting a well planned interior and an exterior that is exceptional in attractiveness and distinction. The Hudson contains six rooms, bath and breakfast nook. The plans are well arranged, with every comfort and convenience provided. This house is almost square, the dimensions being twenty-seven feet by twenty-eight feet. It will suit the ordinary forty-foot lot to advantage and a larger lot will show the architectural lines of the dwelling pleasingly.

DISTINCTIVE EXTERIOR
Seen from the street, the residence is striking in its rugged lines, the informal atmosphere of the English type house being exemplified in the half-timbers and stucco of the overhanging second floor, the brick veneer lower front elevation, the staggered wooden shingles of the roof and upper side walls. A small grass terrace raises the house above the surrounding lawn and aids in removing the sense of flatness that would otherwise result. The flat concrete slab which serves for a stoop is flanked on either side by an ornamental iron railing. The steps leading to the concrete sidewalk are also guarded at either end with the white of the concrete and the green of the lawn.

Across the front of the dwelling is a bay of five windows of the double-hung type with diamond panes above. The mullions between each window are constructed of wood, painted white to contrast with the brick of the side wall.

FLOOR SPACE WELL-ARRANGED

The floor plans of the Hudson have been thoughtfully laid out to take advantage of the square lines of the house. Space is not wasted, but each square foot utilized to the greatest advantage. On the first floor are found the living-room, the dining-room, a well equipped kitchen with a breakfast nook. A lavatory, reception hall, and clothes closet are also on this floor.

Within the broad front door is the reception hall, with a staircase leading up to the second floor. A clothes closet with a mirror in the door are conveniently placed to accommodate the overcoats, rubbers and other outer garments of the members of the family.

French doors separate the hall from the living-room, a spacious room nineteen feet long and thirteen wide. The brick fireplace at the end of the room presents a focal point about which the interior decorating of the room may center. The broad bay windows let in a flood of natural daylight.

SERVICE ROOMS

Immediately to the rear of the living-room is the dining-room, ten by thirteen feet in size, with a door leading to a convenient porch upon which may be served meals during the hot summer months.

The kitchen, separated from the dining-room by a swinging door, is arranged to afford every convenience to the lady of the house. It contains a number of built-in cupboards which take the place of the old-fashioned pantry. The white enameled sink is located beneath the rear window. In the alcove in one corner is the breakfast nook with an overhead light.

From the kitchen a door leads to a service hall, off which is located a well-equipped lavatory. A medicine cabinet with a side wall light is found here. Off the service hall also are the stairs leading to the basement and the door outside.

FURNACE HEAT

The basement has been entirely excavated and a concrete floor laid over the whole. At one side are a pair of laundry tubs where washing may be done at home if the family desire.

At the front of the basement is found the fruit cellar, five shelves in the racks formed by the footings for the bay window holding the fruits that may be stored there.

THREE CHAMBERS ABOVE

On the second floor are located three sleeping rooms, a linen room and a bath. Each chamber is equipped with a closet lighted by an electric bulb. The closets of the chambers are equipped with shelves and a rod upon which the hangers may be placed.

The linen storage is five feet by eight feet in size and contains a shallow case with shelves for placing towels and linens. In this room may be stored the sewing machine and other household equipment.

Off the back chamber is the deck of the rear porch. This deck becomes a handy place for the housewife to air mattresses, bed coverings, clothes and the like.

The bath-room is of generous dimensions, being twelve feet long by five feet wide. It contains the usual built-in bathtub and shower, as well as the pedestal bowl which, as evidence of modern construction. In one corner of the closet is a small cupboard for towels.

LIGHTING THE LIVING-ROOM

Should Be Designed on Flexible Lines to Secure Adequate Results

The home is the theatre of life. Like the stage, it is a place of various moods and occasions. For this reason the lighting of the living-room should be planned along flexible lines, in order that it may be adapted, as occasion may require, to the various activities and social affairs that take place in this room. These activities vary from those of quiet, restful occupations, such as reading or studying, to the joyous occasions when there is company for a Christmas or other notable occasion.

The provision for only one lighting effect limits the possibilities of illumination, and makes for monotony. There really is no excuse for this form, as the present time it is possible to obtain a great variety of fixtures and lamps that can be used in many different ways, if the wiring has been carefully planned in the first place.

A flood of light is desirable on a social occasion, but many quiet evenings require nothing more than a restful, localized light—a table lamp on the study table or a floor lamp beside an easy chair.

Wide Windows Need Further Frame Strength

The modern use of windows in groups has made it necessary for the builder to strengthen the wooden frame over the heads wherever these occur.

The contractor should put the headers on edge rather than lay them flat as is commonly done. In addition to this, if the span is wide there should be trussing over the opening. A good carpenter will do this without question or direction, but you as the builder will want to know these things, so that as you inspect the house you will know that the work is being done satisfactorily.

DEMAND FOR WOOD STEADY

Although each year sees more substitutes on the Canadian market, the amount of wood used remains practically constant. This is due to the new uses being continually found for wood, as a result of the great amount of research now being carried on with a view to finding new uses for wood in its natural condition or by modifications, chemically or mechanically.

CHESS NEWS AND NOTES

England-London Chess League—The championship symbolized by the Eastman Cup was won by Brixton in the final round, scoring 7 to 5 by Hampstead. Among the twenty-four players in this deciding match were: W. Winter, V. Buerger, R. C. and H. C. Griffith and P. W. Sergeant.

British Chess Federation—In response to a request of the International Federation to appoint a British permanent official arbitrator, who will form one of an International Federal Board, the B.C.F. appointed Sir George Thomas. The idea of the F.I.D.E. is that this arbitration board should deal with any question or difficulty that may arise. The incorrect decoding of a move in the London-Washington cable match of 1928 is a case in point.

The Canterbury Congress—By the kind permission of the Warden and Fellows of St. Augustine's College the congress was held in the crypt of the original church built by St. Augustine and King Ethelbert in 597 A.D., and which was used as the burial place of the early Kings and Archbishops of Kent. Up to the time of the dissolution of the monasteries in the reign of Henry VIII. St. Augustine's Abbey had existed for over 900 years as the premier religious house of the kingdom, and it is doubtful if the ancient game of chess has ever had a more ancient setting since congresses have been known.—British Chess Magazine.

In the first class tournament, E. Marchant and H. Golombek tied with 5 each; W. Barker, third, with 4½.

Imperial C.C. vs. Lord Kysant's Companies—A strong team of thirty-two players of the I.C.C., headed by Mir Sultan Khan (British and all-India champion) defeated the Companies by 23½ to 8½. The Nawab Umar Hayat Khan won for the I.C.C. The company provided a special train for the visiting team and entertained them to dinner at the conclusion of the match.

Scotland—Edinburgh Ladies' C.C.—The report of the twenty-sixth annual meeting showed over ninety members, the club having played 34 matches in 1929-30 season. Miss Main, I.L.D., the president, "considered the mental training of chess to be of a very high order, calling made, is sufficient for game whether doubled or undoubled.

Doubtful free doubles of game contracts are particularly vicious when the side doubled is vulnerable and their values are sufficient to redouble. Here, the possible extra points to be gained by defeating the contract one trick amount to but 100 points, against which the opponents will score, if they redouble, at least six to seven times this amount, depending upon the number of odd tricks involved in the contract.

As an example of an unsound free double, take the actual contract bidding of the above deal. The East player doubled North's bid of four Hearts, and South and West passing, North redoubled. South made his contract, scoring 200 for making contract and 400 for four odd tricks redoubled—a total of 600 points instead of 120 points he would have scored but for East's double.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING Auction: South opens the bidding with one Heart in dummy to one Club, not only because the Heart suit is the higher ranking of the two, but because such suit contains a suit trick, whereas the Club does not. West overcalls with one Spade and North bids two Hearts, concluding the bidding, as West is hardly strong enough to resist his Spade suit when unassisted by partner.

Contract: In Contract, as in Auction, South opens with one Heart. West overcalls with one Spade, and North jumps his assist to four Hearts. East, with no sure double passes. This concludes the bidding, as South and West also pass.

THE PLAY West opens the ten of Spades. The Dummy going down, South figures that his best plan of play is to attempt to establish his Club suit before leading trumps, because, should such possible establishment be at all doubtful, he can then revert to a cross ruff. So determined, South wins the first lead with the King of Spades in Dummy, leads the seven of Clubs and finesses the Jack. West, winning with the Queen, continues with Spades, leading the nine. South wins in Dummy with the Ace and leads to two of Diamonds. East, leading to go up with his Ace, South wins with the King (false carding) and leads the four of Clubs, trumping in Dummy with the three. He next leads the four of Diamonds from Dummy, which East wins with the Ace. The Queen of Diamonds dropping from South's hand, East, in an attempt to shorten the impending cross ruff, leads the five of Hearts, which South wins in Dummy with the eight. He then leads the nine of Diamonds, trumping with the nine of Clubs, trumping with the Ace of Hearts and makes finally his King of Hearts, thus making his contract of four odd.

When and when not to double positively, that is, to make what is popularly termed a "Business Double" requires great judgment. The elements of a sound double are: (a) reasonable assurance (a) of ability to defeat the adverse contract; (b) that the points to be so gained will materially exceed those to be gained by going on with own or partner's bid, and (c) that any other declaration opponents may shift to can be doubled with equal or greater profit.

While, confessedly, as often as they should, the points lost by failures to make sound doubles are as nothing comparable to the points lost by unsound doubles, particularly those made with no reasonable assurance of ability to defeat the adverse contract more than one trick.

If positively assured (a) of ability to defeat the contract; (b) that the information imparted by the double will not enable the Declarer to make more tricks than he would otherwise, and (c) that any bid or further bid by doubler or partner would involve a loss, then a double of a contract that can be defeated but one trick is sound, but not otherwise.

Players who double contracts that can be defeated at most but one trick fail to realize that the possible extra points to be gained by such a double, if defeated, is but fifty points. Compared to the possible points to be lost if contract is made, this means that the odds are from three to one to one upon whether the doubled contract, if made, does not or does enable Declarer to score a game.

Last, but not least, of the various unsound doubles is the "free" double of an adverse game contract popularly termed a "free" double, for the reason that such contract, if for the exercise of faculties which were only too often allowed to grow rusty with age, or at least to grow dormant." The club is one of the eight senior clubs in Scotland.

Ireland—The Correspondence Match between the British and the Irish Chess Federations of 100 games stands at 48 all, with 4 games for adjudication. Dr. Max Euwe and Weenink, have awarded a win to Mlotkowski vs. Winter, of London, the other games being declared drawn. As Sir George Thomas won for London, this ties the match. Washington has again challenged London.

Match—Kashdan vs. Jaffe—Victory sided with the former by 3-0. The first game won by Kashdan is unique in illustrating that a game of chess can hang on a very slender thread of advantage which only a true master can manoeuvre to ultimate victory. While his game lacks the brilliant, or even lively, tactics that make chess fascinating, and would seem in its very simplicity to harbor no more than a draw, the cleverness of Kashdan in his delicate treatment of the end position arrived at is an interesting lesson.—Boston Transcript.

Manhattan C.C. vs. Franklin C.C.—In the annual contest, always held on Decoration Day, the former won by 14 games to 4.

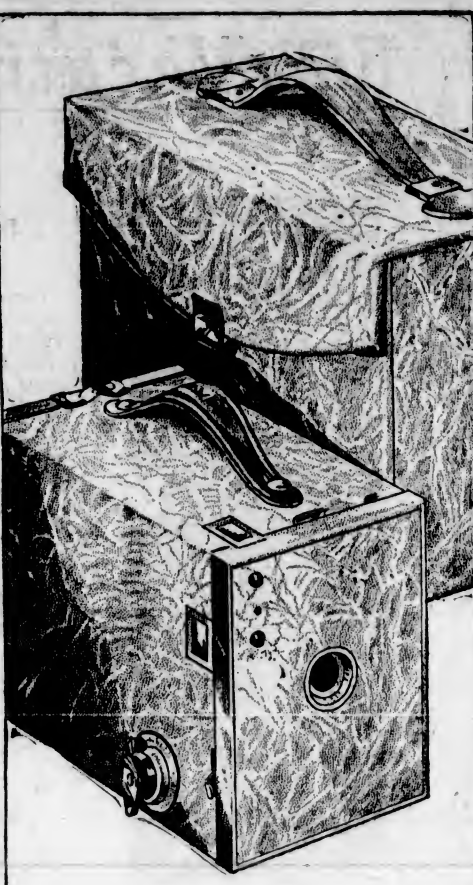

Cuba, Havana—A meeting is to be held to consider how to aid Capablanca to recover the title. Upon filing his challenge he had to deposit $500 and upon acceptance of the challenge a deposit of $2,500. Altogether the challenger must deposit $10,000, with $8,000 to cover expenses, and Capablanca cannot raise the money from his own sources. The coming meeting will try to solve the problem of financial backing.

France—A master I.T. played in Paris ended in a good victory for Smolko Borowski, who lost none of his 7 games. Dr. Tartakower and Gromer, divided second and third prizes, while Lilienthal (an eighteen-year-old Hungarian) and J. Mieses divided fourth and fifth.

Italy—After winning the Florence Tournament, the Marquis Del Turco played 40 games simultaneously, winning 33 and drawing 7.

Switzerland—The thirty-fourth Swiss National Championship, held at Lausanne, was won by Paul Johner.

Rumania—The National Championship was won by Dr. J. Balogh with a score of 8 out of 10, after a

BAR PAMPHLETS ON LIQUOR CONTROL

Information Bureaus in Nova Scotia Gives Offence to New England Drys

(Special to The Colonist. Copyright, 1930.)

HALIFAX, N.S., June 19.—The motto "it pays to advertise" is not an unqualified truth, as certain officials of the Nova Scotia Government have discovered.

Recently New England was flooded with pamphlets, all dealing with the work of the new Government Control Act, which goes into force in Nova Scotia on July 1, the purpose apparently being to inform prospective tourists who might develop a thirst just how that thirst might be quenched.

And then the fun started. Dry organizers and clergymen throughout the whole of New England rose and howled in indignant wrath, and as there are plenty of them, some quite influential, the sound of their protest to high heaven penetrated to official circles at Washington. Reports from the capital indicated that the pamphlets would be seized, and in the future barred from the mails.

EVEN WETS PROTEST

Which ended the wave, as far as New England was concerned. But the backwash struck Nova Scotia, and nearly capitalized the new Liquor Control Board. The names appended to the pamphlet were those of W. B. Proctor and D. J. Buckley, Nova Scotia's Liquor Commissioners. From even the wets of the province went forth a protest that the United States should be deluged with such literature, and Messrs. Proctor and Buckley were rapped plenty by the provincial newspapers, some of them wet, and some of them dry. The latter class were a trifle harder than the others on the commissioners.

This evoked an indignant denial from Mr. Proctor, chairman of the commission, who promptly passed the buck by saying that the pamphlet was not his, but of either Nova Scotia or New England was intended.

"My dear mother-in-law, I want to make a confession to you. I get into a rage terribly easily, often without cause."

"Don't worry, my dear son-in-law, as long as I'm in the house you will never fly into a rage without cause."

RUBBER INDUSTRY SETS AN EXAMPLE

Manufacturing Enterprise Built Up in Canada Under Difficulties—Growth Phenomenal

An example of success in the building up of a manufacturing enterprise under difficulties is that achieved by the rubber industry of the Dominion. Drawing its raw materials almost entirely from other countries, this branch of manufacture has developed a scale of production which not only supplies a large part of the home market, but is sending out increasing exports to all parts of the world. In a period of seven years this industry has increased its output by over 145 per cent, and its exports by over 165 per cent. Imports in the meantime grew by a little over 70 per cent, but there was a change in their character. At the opening of the period, 57 per cent of these imports consisted of raw rubber, but at its close the crude material accounted for 80 per cent of the imports.

The latest returns available for the industry as a whole are for the calendar year 1929, though import and export statistics have been published as recently as this last winter. The comparison made above is with the state of the industry in 1921, when business had returned to normal after the war. In 1921, the number of establishments engaged in the production of rubber goods in Canada was thirty-five. By 1929, it had increased to forty-two. In 1921, the capital invested in the industry was $54,237,618. In 1929, it was $70,450,066. The value of the products of the industry in 1921 was $39,409,786. In 1929, this had increased to $97,208,713.

TIRES AND FOOTWEAR

The rubber industry of Canada has developed mainly in two branches of manufacture, rubber tires and rubber footwear. In 1929, rubber tires and tubes accounted for a production value of $49,708,538, or 51.1 per cent, and rubber footwear for $23,412,611, or 23.4 per cent. In addition, miscellaneous rubber goods were valued at $15,087,564, or 15.5 per cent. Owing to differences in classification, it is impracticable to make a close comparison between the branches of the industry in 1921 and in 1929. The general distribution was, however, much the same. The return published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for 1921 divides the industry into two groups, rubber goods and rubber footwear. The former, which includes rubber tires, turned out products worth $25,618,042, while the latter had a production of $13,851,744. Within the rubber products industry in 1921, earnings accounted for a value of $15,520,810, and inner tubes for $2,130,280.

IMPORTS OF RUBBER

Imports of rubber and rubber goods into the Dominion increased by nearly three-quarters during the seven years which have been dealt with in the survey of the industry. Since that time there has been a tendency to decline. In the fiscal year 1921, the imports of rubber and rubber goods were valued at $15,480,980, while for the fiscal year 1929, their value was $24,671,064. For the twelve months ended February, 1930, the value of rubber imports was $21,464,508. Imports of raw rubber in 1921 were valued at a little less than $9,000,000, in 1929 at a little over $21,000,000, and in the year ended February, 1930, a little over $16,000,000.

EXPORTS GROW FAST

Exports of rubber and rubber goods from the Dominion of Canada in 1921 were valued at $10,839,528. In 1929, this figure had risen to $28,625,951, and for the twelve months ended February, 1930, it was $32,695,443. The largest element in the rubber exports of the Dominion in pneumatic tires, which in the year ended February, 1930, totaled $18,624,302 in value. Second position in the same period was held by boots and shoes, with a value of $10,024,997. Canadian rubber exports go to practically every country in the world. In the month of February last, Canadian pneumatic tire casings were exported to no less than ninety-nine different countries.

Decorative Value of Japanese Prints and Some Hints to Buyers

By MARGARET C. MACLURE

One delightful thing about Japanese color prints is, that they are adaptable to almost any scheme of interior decoration, excepting, of course, rooms which are of a definite period character.

It is extraordinary, too, how well they fit into modern decorative schemes. Their striking boldness of design, grace of line and exquisite color harmony, not to mention quaintness of subject, are beautifully adapted to the new feeling. It is safe to say that anyone who owns and lives for some time with even one example of a good Japanese color print, will be smitten with the desire to possess others. Often in this way has the zeal for collecting come about.

It is now just a hundred and fifty years since the art of color printing from wood blocks was brought to perfection in Japan, by Harunobu, the earliest prints of all having been printed in black only. These were sometimes colored by hand. The so-called blocks of wood used by the Japanese are really planks about three-quarters of an inch thick. This means that the cutting is not on a cross section of the wood as it is on the European block, but on a cutting of the wood parallel with its grain. The design for the print is drawn on transparent paper and then pasted face down on the wood to be cut, various knives being used for the purpose. The Japanese cutters are exceedingly skillful in retaining the "life" of a well-drawn line. If several colors are to be given, it is necessary to have a separate block for each, and as fresh color is applied for every print, naturally these vary in effect, no two being exactly alike. The actual printing is very simple, and is done entirely by hand. The life of a block usually covers from 150 to 300 impressions and it is then destroyed. Prices usually range from $5 to $500, according to the artist and state of impression.

TO DISTINGUISH TYPES

The really authentic old prints are very hard to find nowadays, and of these, such clever imitations are made that an inexperienced person might easily be trapped into paying "old master" prices for quite modern prints. On this subject, there was a very good article in the March number of The Woman's Journal (published in London). It was by W. G. Menzies, and contained much interesting information as well as expert advice. Genuine early prints (according to Mr. Menzies) can, as a rule, be recognized by their clear, decided lines which are filled in with soft colors, while the design also contains a good deal of black in masses. The colors, too, are low in tone, while those in the modern prints are garish and flashy. The fact is due to the fact that the old craftsmen used vegetable colors while their later imitators used vegetable dyes. The scale of colors in the earlier prints was also far more simple in range, the chief combinations being black, blue and red, or black, green and buff; grey, too, was always a favorite color with the old masters. In contrast to this the modern artist seems to have attempted the use of every color on his palette. Especially notable is his use of a very crude "Prussian blue."

Apart from colors—Mr. Menzies goes on to say—there is a paper test by which the amateur can often distinguish early prints from those of recent manufacture. The paper used for the early prints is recognized by its thinness and translucency, while there is an almost entire absence of stiffness. Modern paper on the other hand is thicker and coarser. A favorite test is to turn the print over and examine it from the back. In the old prints the colors are so delicate that they hardly show through, but the outline being of a fine black, is clearly discernible. With modern prints it is the reverse. The outline of the design is not visible, but the garish colors are very evident.

"To spell out beauty in terms of line," was the thing which captured the fancy of all these old-time artists of Japan. They looked upon that as the skeleton of the art.

THREE FAMOUS NAMES
There are three very great names in the world of Japanese prints—Hokusai, Utamaro and Hiroshige.

and special features distinguish the work of each of these masters. Hokusai, who lived in the first half of the nineteenth century, was a master of landscape, and also made pictures of flowers, birds and fish. He was a most prolific artist and gave to the world nearly twenty thousand drawings. Among these were his series of thirty-six views of the sacred mountain Fuji-Yama. Utamaro was famous for his prints of elegant Japanese women. Hiroshige was noted for his landscapes, but his prints suffer in the estimation of the collector because there was another artist of the same name who lived about 1870, whose work, although inferior, was sometimes mistaken for that of the earlier and more notable master.

The Japanese artist works with extraordinary rapidity and ease.

MODERN PICTURES

There is a very spirited modern print which was made from the picture, "Bamboo and Finch," by Fukui Koti. This man once painted over twelve hundred pictures in one day, every one of them large enough for ordinary Kakemonos. He was at it from five in the morning until half past seven o'clock in the evening and worked with two large brushes only. "Bamboo and Finch" was one of the twelve hundred. The rest, each presented some point of excellence, cawing crows, flying birds, thundering waterfalls, bamboos rustling in the wind, and many other subjects depicted by a few lines, curves and washes.

Other celebrated Japanese artists whose work is in great demand by collectors today are Tojokuni, Maronobu and Shuncho. There are also many very charming and highly decorative prints to be had from the work of modern artists.

ROTARY CLUB GREET PRINCE

Welcome Given to Japanese Leader Here En Route to Rotary International Convention

The Rotary Club of Victoria on behalf of Rotary International, extended a welcome to Prince Iyessato Tokugawa, president of the Japanese House of Peers, on his arrival on the Empress of Russia yesterday morning. The deputation consisted of Mr. Alfred Carmichael, president; Mr. Thomas J. Goodlake, secretary, and Messrs. W. T. Pinfold and Thomas J. Yull, directors. The deputation was introduced to the prince by his son, the Hon. Iyemasa Tokugawa, first Japanese minister to Canada. In extending the greetings of Rotary International, Mr. Carmichael said, in part:

"On behalf of Rotary International we extend to you a hearty greeting to the Continent of North America. Rotary feels highly honored by your acceptance of the invitation to address the twenty-fifth annual convention of Rotary International at Chicago. We feel sure the extension of international understanding and good will, which is the sixth object of Rotary, will be furthered by your gracious action."

Mr. H. D. Twigg Talks At Lake Windermere
LAKE WINDERMERE, B.C., June 21.—A complimentary luncheon was tendered to Mr. M. D. McLean, Conservative candidate for Kootenay East, by members of the Conservative Association. Mr. McLean was accompanied by Hon. H. H. Stevens and Mr. H. Despard Twigg, M.P.P. for Victoria.

In his address Mr. Stevens dealt largely with the tariff, incidentally with Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King's five-cent speech. He stated this utterance had been made with the greatest coolness and possession.

Prison life in this country is getting to be more and more revolting,"—Savannah News.
